

From the man on the street

Gerald Ford: who is HE?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Gerald who?" was the question of some as President Richard Nixon announced Friday night that he was nominating House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

Ford, 60, a Michigan resident who has served in Congress for 25 years, was unfamiliar to many. Mrs. Tina Moore, 49, the manager of Jocko's Pizza in Atlanta, Ga., commented, "To tell you the truth, I don't recognize the name. I wish it were Nixon who was being replaced. I think we should have another election."

Al Ruben, a cab driver in Manhattan, said: "I never heard of 'im. What's he done?"

Robert Glenn, a Boise, Idaho, resident who described himself as a Republican, "almost a Bircher," said Ford was "as good as any of them. He's kept his nose clean and his mouth shut."

For some people, the name was vaguely familiar, but that was about all.

"Sen. Ford?" asked a cashier at a Philadelphia restaurant. "Sure I know him. He's one of the Ford family," she said joking. "I'll be honest though, we've never heard of him."

But in Ford's hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich., most residents were happy and surprised at the news.

"Beautiful. It's not going to hurt us any here in Grand Rapids," said Bob Finch, a self-employed businessman.

Grand Rapids, a city of more than 200,000, is the largest metropolitan area in Ford's solidly Republican district covering Kent and Ionia counties in western Lower Michigan.

In 13 congressional races, Ford has never failed to collect at least 62 per cent of the vote. About 95 per cent of the district is white.

"I don't really know, but I think he would be better than Agnew," said Eloyce Chandler, an assembler at Grand Rapids Metalcraft. She said she particularly liked Ford's work in obtaining a federally funded housing project.

State Republican leaders, whom Nixon had sought to involve in the selection process, applauded the nomination of Ford.

"Ford will assume a heavy responsibility for helping the administration repair its damage and regain public confidence," commented Richard Rosenbaum, New York state GOP chairman.

Jack Ransom, Kansas state chairman, joined his counterparts in other states in predicting quick congressional approval of the nomination and said:

"I think it's indicative of the President's desire to heal some of the wounds caused by the differences between the two political parties. I think it's an outstanding choice."

Dr. Ben Clayburgh, national committeeman from North Dakota, said he was confident Ford would pass a rigorous examination by Congress. "If he had any skeletons in the closet, they would have come out many years ago," Clayburgh said.

Nixon certain to appeal order to yield tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears certain to appeal to the Supreme Court a federal appeals court ruling demanding surrender of White House tapes for judicial examination.

In a 5 to 2 decision Friday, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's decision ordering the tapes turned over to him.

The appeals court gave the President until next Friday to ask the Supreme Court to review its decision.

The President "is not above the law's commands," the court said in rejecting Nixon's contention that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers prohibits one branch of government from forcing another branch to obey its commands.

There was no immediate comment from the White House, where attention was focused Friday night on the presidential nomination of Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., for vice president.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who had subpoenaed tapes of nine presidential conversations about Watergate, has argued that the tapes are essential to the grand jury's attempt to determine the extent of the conspiracy to obstruct the probe of the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Charles Alan Wright, lawyer for the President, had argued that the doctrine of executive privilege and the Constitution gave Nixon sole authority to decide if presidential documents could be turned over either to the courts or to Congress.

In asking the appeals court to reverse Sirica's decision, Wright had argued that ordering release of the tapes would breach the traditional confidentiality of presidential discussions with his aides, and "from that moment on it would be simply impossible for any president of the United States to function."

Cox had contended that not even the President was above the law and that the tapes were unique in that they were evidence in a grand jury investigation of possible criminal activity.

Jordan troops aid Syria

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan announced today it has committed "elite troops" to help the Syrian army fighting Israel on the Syrian front.

"We have committed part of our elite forces to play their part with the Syrian army on the Syrian front," a military spokesman said, according to Peter Salah of the Jordanian Information Ministry.

Tank battles resumed early today on the dusty road to Damascus, and Israeli units eliminated most Iraqi forces shoring up the remaining Syrian lines in the Golan Heights, the Israeli military command said.

There was no immediate Syrian or Iraqi response to the claims.

The Israeli command said the ground combat began at dawn after a quiet night on the northern front. Israeli armored columns on Friday penetrated 15 miles inside Syria and to within 25 miles of Damascus, the Israeli state radio said.

Correspondents with the Israeli forces said some elements had penetrated to within 20 miles of the Syrian capital.

An Israeli communique issued early today said "most of the Iraqi forces that entered the fighting in the Golan Heights have been eliminated" and "the remnants of the force are retreating." It did not mention numbers or say how many Iraqis remained ready to fight inside Syria.

A Syrian communique Friday conceded that the Israeli armored offensive made initial headway but claimed the Israelis were beaten back later "in continual violent battles."

The communique, which claimed Syria had destroyed 78 Israeli tanks as well as halftracks and artillery pieces in the counterattack, did not say how far the Israelis had advanced.

Associated Press correspondent Paul Kohn said the route to Damascus was littered with wrecked Syrian tanks and charred bodies and that Syrian soldiers were surrendering to the Jewish forces. Based on reports from the Israeli command and from newsmen, Damascus

Soviets boosting supplies to Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian transport planes have delivered at least 1,000 tons of weapons and ammunition to Syria and Egypt since mid-week, Pentagon officials say.

However, Israeli air attacks on Syrian and Egyptian airfields appear to have impeded the Russian airlift.

Some Russian transport planes were reported to have turned back from Syria and headed home because Syrian airfields were too badly damaged to land.

At least two Russian AN12 Cub transports were reported damaged on the ground at Aleppo, Syria. Israeli jet pilots have refrained from threatening or attacking Soviet transports in the air.

The Russians also are flying heavy military cargo into Egypt aboard giant AN22 transport planes which can carry about 50 tons apiece. War gear unloaded from Soviet planes in Egypt and Syria has included surface-to-air missiles, antitank weapons and ammunition, officials said.

It was noted that Egyptian SAM batteries along the Suez canal have been firing missiles at Israeli planes in salvos. This may indicate the Egyptians are confident of receiving plentiful supplies of missiles from Russia.

Some sources reported the Russians had placed air controller teams at Syrian and Egyptian airports to handle a stream of planes flying in from the Soviet Union.

The Russians also have been resupplying their Arab clients by sea, U.S. intelligence sources said.

The Soviet sealift of war supplies is proving to be risky. Russia claimed one of its freighters was sunk by Israeli missiles in the Syrian port of Tartus.

The Soviet news agency Tass warned of possible "grave consequences for Israel." It did not say what those consequences might be.

At the same time, Russia has been silent on its airlift to Syria and Egypt.

It was the one big night of the year for hundreds of football fans here and a once-in-a-lifetime experience for nine pretty high school girls at the Homecoming games of Washington Senior High School and Miami Trace High School.

The queens and their courts reigned over the football games from special boxes in the stadium, and the football teams of both schools contributed to the joy of the occasion with victories — the Lions of WSHS with a 44 to 0 shutout of the Wilmington Hurricane and the MTHS Panthers with a 30 to 14 victory over the Circleville Tigers.

House Leader Gerald Ford choice for Vice President

Ford approval seems assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urging Americans to put aside old obsessions for a new beginning, President Nixon today sends a receptive Democratic Congress his vice presidential nomination of House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Both the House and Senate were poised to vote the swift confirmation the President sought in the name of national unity.

Nixon announced his choice Friday night in a nationally televised ceremony, with only oblique mention of the corruption scandal that forced Spiro T. Agnew's resignation Wednesday from the nation's second highest office.

Within hours, it was clear Ford was breezing toward easy confirmation, perhaps within a week or two, barring adverse disclosures during congressional hearings.

An Associated Press survey found Ford with 52 votes, one more than needed for confirmation. None of the senators initially contacted were opposed, but nine said they were reserving judgment pending the hearings.

At the same time, 131 House members said they would vote for Ford, two said they were opposed and 15 were undecided or withholding comment.

The President clearly had the Watergate and Agnew scandals in mind when he told the nation "it is vital that we turn away from the obsessions of the past, and turn to the great challenges of the future."

"This is a time for a new beginning for America, a new beginning in which we all dedicate ourselves to the tasks of meeting the challenges we face, seizing the opportunities for greatness and meeting the dangers wherever they are, at home and abroad."

The beaming 60-year-old Ford bounded to Nixon's side from his front row seat in the White House East Room and accepted the nomination with a promise to work "to make America a united America."

The tall, pipe-smoking lawyer and former college football star has represented a western Michigan district in the House for 25 years, building a reputation as a staunch party man and a strong supporter of Nixon's policies.

His selection immediately placed his name high on the list of Republican contenders for the presidency in 1976.

As he left the White House Friday night, Ford told newsmen "I have no intentions to run in 1976 for president or for vice president."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon solved one problem when he picked Gerald R. Ford to be vice president, but created another by opening the way for a fight for Ford's old job as House Republican leader.

"We're probably going to have a little blood-letting," said Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, Friday night after joining his House colleagues in a general acclamation for Ford's nomination.

In his eight years as minority leader

Weather

Clearing and cooler tonight. Lows in the mid 50s. Sunday partly cloudy. Highs in the low 60s.

Ford stilled the in-fighting between the conservative and moderate wings of the House Republicans, forming them into an effective force that won more than its share of battles with the majority Democrats.

But Friday afternoon, when his selection as vice president was still conjecture, battle lines were already being drawn in anticipation that a new Republican leader would be needed.

In the GOP hierarchy, Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R-Ill., the Republican whip, is second in command. But Arends is 77, has served under three leaders since becoming whip in 1943 and seems content to remain the number two man.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., 51, chairman of the House Republican Conference — the party caucus — holds the third ranked job and is interested in moving up. But Anderson is regarded as too liberal by a large segment of his colleagues.

The evening was made complete when their Panther gridders whipped the Tigers from Circleville, 30 to 14, in an SCOL game.

Agnew schedules TV talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently determined to vindicate himself as much as possible from criminal allegations, former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has scheduled a television address to the nation on Monday night.

Arrangements for the speech, to be broadcast live on all three national networks, were disclosed Friday night, shortly after President Nixon announced he would nominate Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House minority leader, as Agnew's successor.

Agnew, who has spent the last two days working on his address in his private office next door to the White House, was assumed by aides to have watched Nixon's telecast.

However, there were no indications that he planned to comment on it.

Agnew resigned his post on Wednesday, pleading no contest to a felony charge of federal income tax evasion. He was fined $10,000 and sentenced to three years probation.

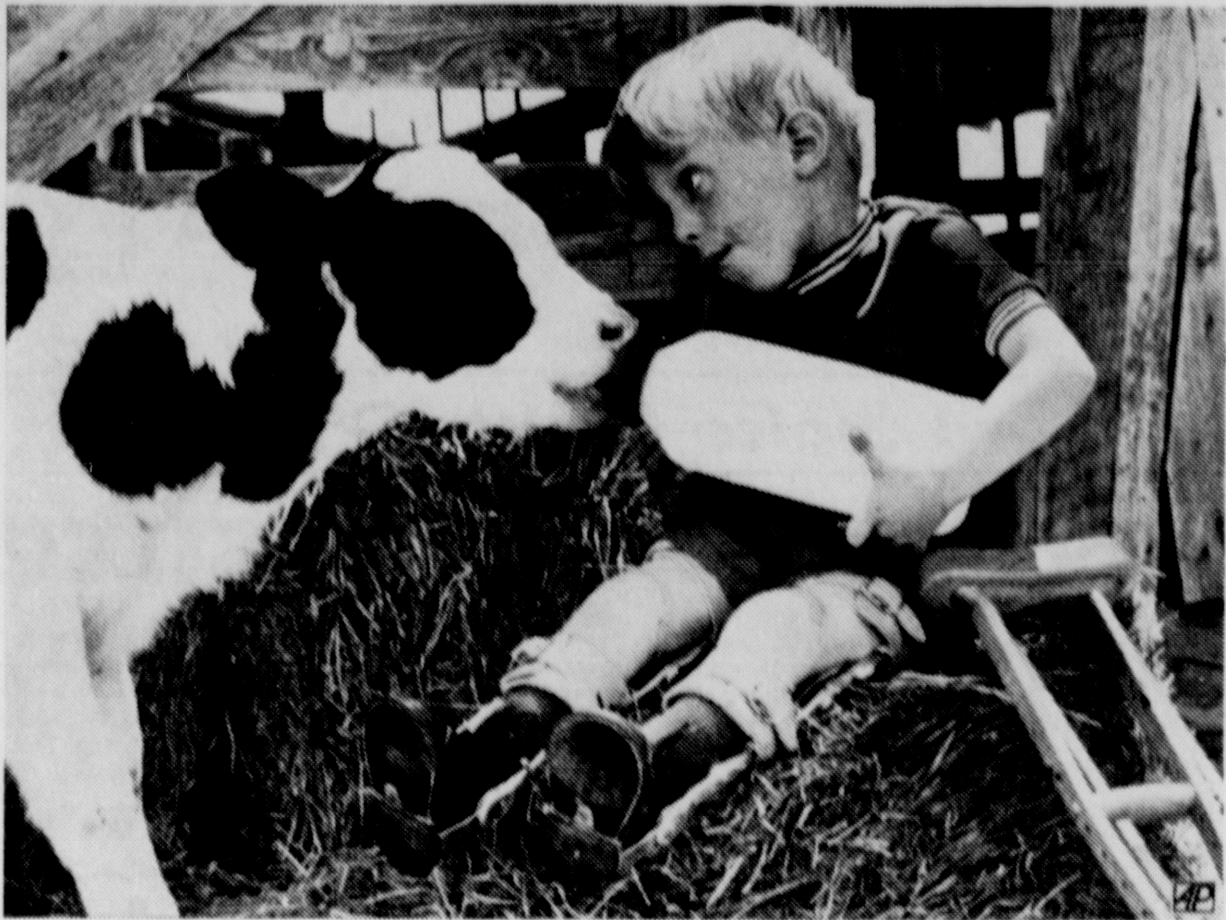

In exchange, the government agreed not to prosecute him on allegations including extortion, bribery and conspiracy. The evidence against Agnew was compiled in a federal investigation of alleged kickbacks and corruption in Maryland, where Agnew served as a county executive and as governor in the 1960s.

The allegations were set forth in a 40-page document made public by the Justice Department simultaneously with Agnew's court hearing.

Agnew, while conceding guilt on the income tax charge, denied the other accusations and was expected to give a detailed defense of himself in the Monday night address.

Understanding Issue No. 1 before November election

COLUMBUS — Issue One on the November 6 Election Day ballot for Ohio voters to consider doesn't appear to be well understood by many voters. That's the belief of Paul R. Thomas, Extension resource development specialist at Ohio State University. To accurately judge this issue, he points out, voters should be as well informed about it as possible.

Issue One is a constitutional amendment which, if passed, would permit the Ohio General Assembly to enact legislation allowing appraisal of farm land for tax purposes according to the land's agricultural use value rather than its potential value for development, etc. The wording of the issue also makes possible legislation for recoupment of some of the tax difference, should the land use be changed.

Now farm land in Ohio is taxed according to its probable or potential use rather than its agricultural use. This means that many farmers near or within the influence of cities or towns are faced with high tax payments on their land because it may be near an industrial or residential area.

ABOUT 30 states already have passed laws relating to taxation of agricultural land, Thomas reveals. Of these states, 13 have deferred taxation laws which allow a land-owner to postpone part of his tax payment until he sells or develops the land. Eleven of the states assess land devoted to agricultural uses on the basis of its current use or value in agriculture, and market values reflecting potential uses are ignored.

For the state of Ohio, about six per cent of all real estate taxes come from farm land. Taxing land according to its present use for agricultural purposes is not expected to roll back taxes much, if any, from current levels, Thomas reveals, but rather to prevent drastic increases in farm real estate taxes in future years, in some instances.

Part of these drastic increases could come as a result of the 35 per cent equalization rule which became effective in Jan. 1972. This requires that various classes of property be assessed uniformly in each county and that a uniform level of assessment also be made throughout the state. The level of assessment is 35 per cent of market value. So far, 18 counties have undergone reappraisal based on the equalization rule and property classified as "agricultural" appears to require the greatest amount of increase.

How will the outcome of Issue One affect food prices? Thomas sees no noticeable affect in the short run, regardless of the outcome. In the long run he says failure of Issue One would exert upward pressure on the price of land used for farming. This is because more farmers in the metropolitan areas would sell their land to non-farm users. Some of them would attempt to purchase other farms and thus bid up land prices on the urban fringe and in rural areas. The resulting higher farm land values would be capitalized into a high cost of production and hence higher food prices over time, the specialist believes.

If you would like further information on Issue One, request a copy of "Agricultural Land Taxation, Questions and Answers Regarding Issue One" from your county Extension office or from Thomas at 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus Ohio 43210.

the commodities under the loan program, producers may find advantages in the loan program for between-crop income if they plan to sell at a later date, thus providing themselves with greater independence in their crop marketing. Loans are on several crops grown in Fayette County, including, corn, soybeans, wheat, oats and grain sorghum.

Phillips emphasized that ASCS is not in a position to advise farmers when or how to market, but he does feel an obligation to remind producers that the loan program is available for those who want to utilize it as a marketing tool in obtaining maximum crop income. Even though market prices are above loan, it's good business for producers to be aware of the marketing options available to them, Phillips said. Government loans are one of several techniques. Other options include forward contracting, hedging the crop through the use of futures markets, periodic partial sales, as well as combinations of the various techniques, Phillips said. Producers interested in utilizing the commodity loan program should contact the county ASCS office, he added.

District pork board names Craig director

By JOHN GRUBER
County Extension Agent

Congratulations are in order this week for Harry Craig, Jones Road, Bloomingburg. Harry was elected District Director to the Ohio Pork Producers Council at the District meeting in Chillicothe Wednesday night. The District is made up of Fayette, Ross, Pickaway, and Fairfield counties.

Harry has been an active member and past president of the Fayette County Pork Producers Association and participates regularly in meetings of the Ohio and National Pork Producers Council.

The District meeting is held annually to select the District Pork Queen and to hear a report on the activities of the Ohio Pork Producers Council. Nancy Woods, Fayette County Pork Queen, was a participant in the Queen Contest which was won by Nancy Mast from Pickaway County.

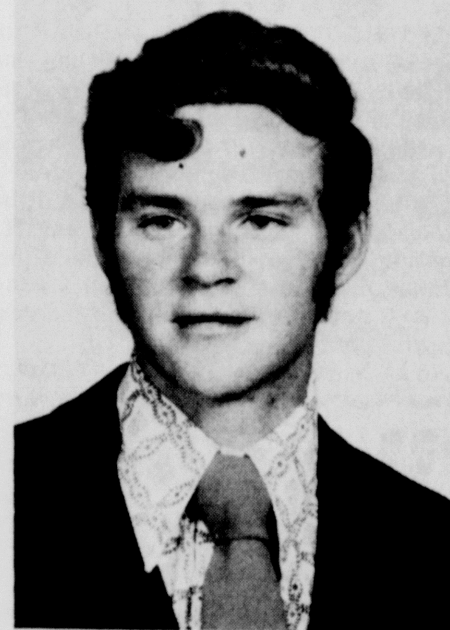

Dick Isler, Executive Secretary of the Ohio Pork Producers Council was on hand to report on the pork promotion activities of recent months. According to Dick, one successful promotion that has been coordinated through the National Pork Producers Council was this summer's Hawaiian Luau promotion.

Pork outlook for the next year is going to be good according to David Gerber, Area Extension Agent, Swine Industry. Gazing into his crystal hog trough at the District Pork meeting Gerber said that the forecast was for fewer hogs on Ohio farms with a trend toward more hogs nationally. He suggested that producers watch the futures market over the next few weeks to determine what trend the market will take.

WHERE ARE they now! Newspaper and T.V. headlines are what I am referring to. They provided a lot of abuse for agriculture during recent months. They made sure consumers knew that food prices were rising at unequalled rates. But where are they now? Several headlines have mentioned that livestock prices are down, but too few have failed to mention what it means to the farmer. We saw and heard many reports of how rising food prices were putting a crimp in the style of living to which many people have become accustomed.

The problem now is the livestock prices have dropped tremendously, as much as 30 per cent or more. Where are the headlines telling the consumer that the farmer is doing his bit to cool inflation - not because he wants to - but because the market is forcing him too.

Just wondering - what would happen to inflation and the value of the dollar if factory workers showed up at work Monday morning to find this note "Sorry market's off 25 per cent today and your wages are reduced accordingly". Oh yes, the same thing would have to happen to everyone, auto dealers, clothing stores, labor management alike. Just wondering - what if the whole country operated on a free market such as agriculture?

I got to thinking about this last week

while attending the National Association of County Agriculture Agents Convention in Baltimore, Md. You see, one day I ate lunch in a restaurant where after you ate and received your check, the cashier added on ten per cent because there food cost had gone up. It was just a little bit too much when I paid twenty-five cents for a coffee (which didn't get refilled) and then the cashier added another two and one-half cents to it!

Proper hints offered for earn corn picking

Proper P.T.O. speed and ground speed are two important factors in keeping harvest losses low when harvesting corn with an ear corn picker, reports Delbert (Bud) Byg, Extension agricultural engineer at Ohio State University.

Proper P.T.O. speed is 540 hpm for corn pickers. A slower speed will cause poor snapping of the ear from the stalk. Stalks may also break or pull out of the ground and the gathering chains will not feed the stalk back into the snapping rolls. This causes stalks to be dozed over forward, resulting in increased ear loss, the engineer points out. Some farmers with large tractors reduce engine speed and then shift up to a faster ground speed, thinking they are economizing — but it doesn't work that way. Ear losses can easily double or triple. Use a tachometer to check P.T.O. speed on older model tractors. On newer tractors, read the P.T.O. speed on the speed and hour meter.

The idea ground speed is 2.8 to 3.2 mph, the engineer says. The way to judge proper ground speed is to note the position on the snapping rolls where the ear is snapped from the stalk. The proper position is two-thirds of the distance up the snapping roll. If ground speed is too slow, ears are snapped near the front end of the rolls. This results in more "butt shelling of the ear" since the rolls are open wider at the front.

It also results in more ear loss because of congestion at the front of the rolls. With too fast a ground speed, ears will be snapped at the top end of the snapping rolls. This causes excessive ear crushing and shelling. Also the upper portion of stalks enter the husking mechanism, Byg states.

If your tractor doesn't have a speedometer, an easy way to determine ground speed is to have a person walk beside the picker, staying even with some part of it, and counting the number of 3-foot steps taken in 20 seconds. Then divided this number by 10 and you have the ground speed in miles per hour, Byg says.

Corn picker losses should be less than two bushels per acre when corn is 90 per cent standing and above 20 per cent grain moisture, Byg adds.

Nominations open for ASC election

Nominations for candidates for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee will be open through Monday, Oct. 29, reports George C. Speakman, chairman of the Fayette County ASC Committee.

Under the ASC farmer-elected committee system, programs such as wheat, feed grain, farm facility loan, grain loans and other federal farm programs are administered by local farmers. Elections are held annually by mail and newly-elected committee members take office on Jan. 1 of each year.

Preceding the Nov.-Dec. mail election, any three farmers may nominate a candidate by signing a petition. Farmers may sign as many petitions as they like. The petition may be on any sheet of paper as long as it includes a statement that the nominee has agreed to serve if elected. Nominating petitions must be turned in at the Fayette County ASCS Office, not later than Oct. 29.

If fewer than six candidates are nominated by petition, the county and community committeemen now in office will fill out the slate.

Those eligible to nominate, run for office, and vote in ASC committee elections include farm owners, tenants and sharecroppers, age 18 or older, without regard to race, religion, color, sex, or national origin. A wife who operates a farm with her husband and whose name is on the deed can nominate, be nominated, vote and serve on a committee.

Opinion And Comment

A WORD EDGEWISE... by John P. Roche Was Israel asleep?

There are a number of distressing aspects about the new outbreak of war in the Middle East. The least of these is the role of the United Nations.

Indeed, the miracle there is that the General Assembly has not yet condemned Israel for the imperialist, aggressive behavior she demonstrated in resisting invasion. (I wonder if the "Third Worlders," who have taken to determining policy for the World Council of Churches, will denounce the Israelis for such irreligious action as fighting on Yom Kippur?)

No, there are issues at two other levels that concern me far more than anything that may emerge from Turtle Bay. The first I alluded to here a few weeks ago: the extent to which the Arab position on a Middle Eastern "peace" has become the conventional wisdom.

The Egyptian justification for attacking was that "peaceful" techniques of settling the boundary dispute had failed. This is nonsense. Cairo has flatly stated for years that it would not sit down at the table with Israel. And that its precondition for letting anybody else try to settle the dispute was an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories.

THE DIFFICULTY with the conventional wisdom is that it meshes so nicely with the selfish stimuli of the Western energy crisis. Although there is no reason to believe that Arab oil blackmail would cease if Israel were located in Australia, the temptation is to contemplate a cold winter and accept the propaganda line (already launched by some American oil companies) that Israel's stubbornness is the cause of it all.

In a realistic analysis, the Arab oil-producing nations are on to a good thing — all Israel does is provide them with an excuse for what they would be doing anyhow, namely sandbagging oil-thirsty industrial economies.

My second concern is that Israel seems to have been asleep at the switch. Perhaps some Jews and Arabs would be dismayed at an attack on Yom Kippur and Ramadan, but Moshe Dayan must have heard the well-substantiated rumors that North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, who now has some free time on his hands, has been providing "fraternal" advice to the Syrians and the Palestinian guerrillas. (Giap's specialty is, of course, assaults on holidays — see Tet.)

Moreover, building up for an armored invasion of the Golan Heights or a Suez bridging operation can hardly be conducted in secret. Where was Israeli military intelligence? The excuse that the enemy has been threatening such activities for years with no action just won't wash: you can't mass the material for 11 bridges in a desert, then crank up to install them without leaving traces significant enough to justify at least partial mobilization of the Israeli reserves.

The net result is that Israel for the first time since 1948 is on the defensive. As other Arab states make their contribution (Iraq has already offered 100,000 men and its sophisticated air force, and Tunisia—of all places—is sending a contingent), Israel may be confronted with its ultimate military nightmare: a war of attrition.

BEAR IN MIND that the Egyptians and Syrians alone outnumber Israel by roughly two to one and that a number of intelligent Arab military men among them have not been wasting the last six years on rhetoric. Once Israel is fully mobilized, it may be able to launch the kind of blitz that worked so well in 1956 and 1967, but the ominous possibility must also be faced that Israel will wind up literally besieged, dying the death of a thousand cuts.

One hopes this is unduly pessimistic, but the point is that the United States is Israel's only friend in the world. We must therefore face a number of very hard contingencies (with military intervention as an ultimate possibility) and be in a position to implement them.

If President Nixon confines himself to playing games at the United Nations, he will be engaging in a dangerous form of inaction. While urging the Arabs and Israelis to negotiate their differences, he should make it clear that we will not permit the destruction of Israel: the actual Arab objective.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

By reading the news nowadays about all the shortage on all the fuels it makes a person wonder how and why we are having these shortages. They seem to come all at once.

We have just gotten through a 10-year war in Viet Nam. During this time I know that there had been millions of gallons of fuel had to be used for these bombers and helicopters and what have you. All during this decade how much was there said about a fuel shortage? Now that this war has stopped and is not using all this fuel we suddenly find we have a shortage.

I think the oil companies had gotten used to making a vice profit from the sales of these fuels to the government, and now that it's stopped they cry shortage so they can bring their prices up and get the profit they kind of gotten used to.

I know one trip in those bombers would take me a long time to use that amount of gas. This is why I feel that this shortage is man made.

Christmas Tree set for nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 40-foot evergreen that is destined to be the nation's official Christmas tree for years to come has arrived here.

The Colorado blue spruce, trucked in Thursday, is to be planted later at the center of the Ellipse, a grassy area behind the White House. It will be decorated and lighted annually for the two-week-long Pageant of Peace, which this year begins Dec. 14.

The tree, which is expected to double in size eventually, is the first to be planted here. In the past, a fresh tree has been felled in a national forest each year and transported to Washington.

Yesterday's Cryptogram: THE OBJECT OF TEACHING A CHILD IS TO ENABLE HIM TO GET ALONG WITHOUT HIS TEACHER.—ELBERT HUBBARD

(© 1973 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She called him 'Bob' — husband Joe got upset

DEAR ABBY: I am a 25-year-old mother of five boys ranging from 7 years old, down to 20 months. I am happily married, or at least I WAS until this unexplainable thing happened.

About three months ago, my husband and I were talking, and I said: "That's what you think, Bob." (His name is Joe.)

He asked me who "Bob" was, and I honestly couldn't give him an answer. I don't know any Bob, and I don't recall one who meant a thing to me.

I swear to you, Abby, I don't know what made me call my husband "Bob."

He keeps bringing it up. I'm sure he thinks there must be a "Bob" in my life. There isn't. How can I convince him? And can you give me one good reason why I called Joe "Bob?"

INNOCENT
DEAR INNOCENT: Bob is a very common name, and there are lots of Bobs bobbing around on TV and radio and in the newspaper. Don't let it bother you. With five boys under seven, you could have unconsciously been thinking of bibs, boobs, or babes.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman. He does the least amount of work he can. Some days he stays in bed until 1:00 p.m. When people call for him I have to lie and say he's "out." His laziness irritates me.

I work hard for the church, teaching Sunday school, working with the auxiliary, and helping with study groups.

We've been married for over 30 years, and our children are gone. They seldom come home because their father is so hard to get along with. He never converses; he lectures. He monopolizes every conversation, contradicts everyone, and tells me not to express any opinions in public because I'm stupid.

I can't ask anyone for help with my problem because it would ruin my husband's image. Besides I wouldn't want anyone to know what kind of person he is.

I've secretly considered leaving him, but a divorced minister would have a hard time getting another church, and he couldn't stay here for the shame of it. (I could go to my daughter's. She knows what I'm putting up with.) Please help me.

NO IDENTIFICATION, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Clergymen have the same problems as other men. (So do their wives.) Don't let the illusion of his "image" discourage you. He needs counseling, and so do you. Your county welfare or Family Service can offer you excellent confidential professional help. I suggest you get it.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My mother, who is in her middle sixties, has been ailing for five years, but she absolutely refuses to go to a doctor. She has not had a checkup in 20 years. Just the mention of it infuriates her.

Although the rest of her is normal, her abdomen has become greatly enlarged, leading us to fear she could have a tumor. She eats very little but lately she drinks a lot. I suspect she does this because of the pain-killing properties in alcohol.

I have nightmares about her having cancer, but she says a woman her age doesn't have to worry about that.

Abby, how can we get her a doctor? She reads you faithfully. Can you help?

STUMPED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR STUMPED: She is wrong. A woman "her age" is not immune to cancer. Your mother is probably avoiding the doctor because she's afraid of bad news. Stress your love and concern for her without communicating your fears. (P.S. If any doctors out there know of a better solution, I'll be glad to print it. And you may remain anonymous.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Don't find yourself ineligible to vote because you "forgot" to register. Call the headquarters of your choice (political, that is) and, if you don't know, ask where you should register. "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing." (Edmund Burke: 17th Century)

Bengals gird for Sunday's appointment with Steelers

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Bengals, armed with a 1-2-3 punch which hasn't been enough, square off Sunday with one of the National Football League's top knockout artists—the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A sellout crowd of more than 60,000 is expected for the American Conference battle which has to be considered an important contest for both clubs.

For the unbeaten Steelers, who have mauled four straight opponents by lopsided scores, it also offers the chance to apply a staggering blow to the Bengals, once considered Pittsburgh's prime challenger in the Central Division.

Cincinnati, 2-2, goes into the meeting with the No. 1 offensive in the 13-team AFC, the NFL's No. 2 ground gainer in stubby Essex Johnson and the third-best passing game in pro football.

The Bengals lead the league with 1,396 yards, and Johnson is second only to O.J. Simpson in rushing yardage. The 5-foot-9 Johnson is averaging 98.5 yards per game.

Quarterback Ken Anderson's 771 aerial yards trail only Roman Gabriel's 837 and Jim Hart's 820.

But despite the gaudy statistical marks, the Bengals have faltering on the field. They are third in the standings and can't afford many more defeats to remain in contention.

But they have their work cut out. "The Steelers are one of the very best football teams in the National Football League," said Coach Paul Brown. "There's not much missing—if anything."

Pittsburgh, division winners last year with an 11-3 mark, has been explosive in their best start in history.

Last week, quarterback Terry Bradshaw keyed a 38-point first half avalanche that buried San Diego 38-21. The week before it was a 30-point

A's, Mets collide

OAKLAND (AP)—New York's Cinderellas, the Mets of 1973, that is, began testing their latest little miracle on the Oakland A's today as the World Series opened with a battle of left-handers—Jon Matlack for the Mets and Ken Holtzman for the A's.

"You gotta believe!" was the slogan the Mets used to cheer themselves from last place to first in the final month of the season and then past Cincinnati in the playoffs to win the National League championship.

Even some of the A's sound like believers. Holtzman, for example, remembered the Mets as no pushovers from his days as a pitcher with the Chicago Cubs.

"If I had to pick one club in the National League which gave me the most trouble, I would have to say it was the Mets," said the southpaw, one of three 20-game winners on the Oakland staff. He lost nine of 13 career decisions against New York while with Chicago.

"The Mets are a good ball club with a super pitching staff," said Reggie Jackson, who had been quoted earlier as putting down the New Yorkers. "Lots of people take them lightly because of their so-so record but if you do, they'll knock your head off like they did to the Reds."

That so-so record was 82-79 but it was good enough to win the National League East title. It is the worst record ever carried into a World Series by any team in baseball history.

Manager Yogi Berra shrugged off his club's sorry record, pointing to health problems that plagued the team throughout the season.

"I'd like to take a chance all season with everybody healthy," said Berra. He may not have that chance this week. Right fielder Rusty Staub, one of the most potent bats in the Mets' lineup, was a doubtful starter for today's opener because of a banged-up right shoulder, injured in the fourth game of the playoffs against the Reds.

Both teams were set to use left-handers in the first two games here. After Matlack and Holtzman dueled today, the Mets were scheduled to pitch

Are Rams real?

NEW YORK (AP)—Are the Los Angeles Rams for real?

As the National Football League goes into its fifth weekend, the Rams, in a renaissance under new Coach Chuck Knox, are one of the three teams still unbeaten and untied.

Los Angeles, with a new quarterback in John Hadl, a new coaching philosophy and a highly suspect—in preseason estimates—pass defense, had been relegated to the role of run-ner-up or lower in the reckoning of the National Football Conference West race.

Instead, the Rams are 4-0, have the best scoring offense in the NFC and one of the better defenses against scoring.

This Sunday the Rams play host to the Dallas Cowboys and face the severest test to date. The Cowboys will be attempting to rebound from their loss to Washington and stay alive in the NFC. The oddsmakers called it a "pick-em" early in the week.

Before going on to this week's Fearless Football Forecast, let's pause—not for station identification—and report that last week's showing was much better: 10 correct, three wrong. That makes it 36-14-2 for four weeks and a .720 average.

Fort Wayne Komets turn back Owls, 5-3

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Fort Wayne Komets survived some shaky defensive work in the third period, then got an insurance goal from Ken Nelson with slightly more than two minutes left to beat the Columbus Owls 5-3 in an International Hockey League exhibition game here Friday night.

Fort Wayne led 4-1 going into the third period, but Columbus rammed in two goals in one six-minute stretch to close to 4-3 before Nelson's unassisted goal at 17:57 closed out the scoring.

In comes the new out goes the old

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty-year-old Johnny Unitas holds almost all National Football League passing records and 22-year-old Dan Fouts doesn't hold any.

But when the San Diego Chargers go on offense Sunday against the Oakland Raiders, it'll be Fouts on the field and Unitas on the bench.

Chargers' Coach Harland Svare said Friday that Unitas "needs a rest."

The Chargers have won just one of four games, with Unitas completing just two of the nine passes he through against Pittsburgh last week.

Fouts, a third-round draft choice out of Oregon, hit on 11 of 21 tosses for 174 yards in the second half, racking up 21 points in the process.

Quarterback is not the only problem area on the San Diego team. Offensive coach Bob Schnelker quit this week and was replaced by George Dickson, and there's grumbling in the backfield.

Cid Edwards and Clint Jones are slated to start at the running backs which leaves an unhappy Mike Garrett on the sidelines.

The Raiders, 2-2, are also going with a young quarterback in place of a veteran. Left-hander Ken Stabler has sent Daryle Lamonic to the sidelines, for the time being anyway. The Raiders, with Stabler at the helm, rolled up 446 yards in total offense against St. Louis last week—the club's best offensive showing since 1970.

Other games on Sunday's schedule: Dallas at Los Angeles, Minnesota at San Francisco, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Green Bay in Milwaukee, Baltimore at Buffalo, Washington meets the New York Giants in New Haven, Conn., Philadelphia at St. Louis, Detroit at New Orleans, Chicago at Atlanta, the New York Jets visit New England and Houston welcomes Denver.

Miami visits Cleveland in the Monday night game.

Priests may pray a victory for Rice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe Nebraska's Bob Devaney was right a couple of years ago when he said that "even the Pope couldn't vote for Notre Dame."

The Pope hasn't been heard from, but some 80 area priests, clad in their clerical "game uniforms," will be rooting against Notre Dame when the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish meet Rice tonight in Houston.

"There'll be 40 of them on each side of our bench and we've made them sign a pledge to root for Rice," says Coach Al Conover, one of the game's new breed of free spirits. "We're going to outspiritualize them."

Not to be outdone, the Notre Dame alumni society of Houston has purchased 1,500 tickets to the game, scheduled a pep rally and printed ribbons and buttons boosting Notre Dame.

Coach Ara Parseghian is worried about the Rice team, not the priests. "Any team that can hold Louisiana State to three points in the first half at Baton Rouge has to be respected," he says, even though Rice eventually lost 24-9.

The only other night game involving a member of The Associated Press Top Twenty is San Jose State at No. 11 Arizona State.

Friday night, 14th-ranked Houston scored two touchdowns in 1:41 of the third quarter—including a 95-yard

Third string quarterback Ed Carney scored on a one-yard sneak with 53 seconds remaining to give 16th-ranked Miami, Fla. a 15-10 victory over Boston College.

The rest of the Top Ten schedule finds No. 1 Ohio State at Wisconsin, No. 2 Nebraska at No. 12 Missouri, No. 3 Alabama at Florida, Washington State at No. 4 Southern California, No. 5 Michigan at Michigan State, No. 6 Oklahoma vs. No. 13 Texas at Dallas, Army at No. 7 Penn State, Georgia Tech at No. 8 Tennessee and No. 10 Louisiana State at Auburn.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 15 UCLA at Stanford, Air Force at No. 17 Colorado, No. 18 Tulane at Duke, Kansas State at No. 19 Kansas and Ohio University at No. 20 Miami of Ohio.

That left the respective aces of the staffs—Tom Seaver of the Mets and Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the A's—to oppose each other in Tuesday night's third game in New York. Seaver and Hunter were the winners as the Mets and A's won their league titles in the fifth and final playoff games against Cincinnati and Baltimore.

The A's are in the Series for the

Bernier's team leaps in prep grid ratings

COVINGTON, Ky. — Covington (Ky.) Catholic High School, under the guidance of former Miami Trace head coach Fred Bernier, is playing a game of leapfrog in the Kentucky high school football ratings.

Covington Catholic, which had gone winless in four games before upsetting Lexington Bryan Station 22-14 last Saturday night. As a result, Bryan Station fell from No. 5 to No. 7 and Covington Catholic jumped from 53rd all the way to a three-way tie for 31st place.

AND WHEN told of his team's climb by a reporter from the Louisville Courier-Journal, Covington Catholic coach Bernier paused, laughed, then exclaimed, "Oh my goodness!"

Another pause, then "Oh my goodness," he said again. "You've got to be kidding. I was sure that would help, but we sure didn't expect it to be that much. But I guess the ratings go haywire when something like that happens."

Actually, in the past a Covington Catholic win over Bryan Station wouldn't have been that surprising. But Bernier, who returned to Kentucky after coaching for four years in Ohio, including the short stint at Miami Trace, admits that Covington Catholic's program has gone downhill recently.

"Catholic had an awfully good program in the past," Bernier said, "but about four years ago they started letting it disintegrate. So we've been trying to build it back up, but it's really hard when you play teams like we've been playing."

And Bernier knows what he's talking about there. In five games Covington Catholic has faced no less than three teams — Fort Thomas Highlands, Lexington Lafayette and Bryan Station — that have been in the top 10 in the rankings when it has played them.

However, Covington Catholic has only been clobbered once — 45-13 by Lafayette two weeks ago. The rest of its games have been decided by a touchdown or less.

"WE NEED to play teams our own size," Bernier remarked. "You can get by with one or two teams like that a year, but not every game. We're working on our schedule, though, and I'm very optimistic."

Another reason for concern may fall in the fact that Covington Catholic's enrollment has fallen way down recently. Last year it was less than half of what it was four years ago, but it has grown to 550 boys this year.

"It looks as if things are beginning to pick up again," Bernier remarked. "We have the largest freshman class in four years."

"Our biggest problem, though, is that the school has been used to losing for so long," he continued. "But this will help our kids tremendously. Now they'll believe they can win and they will believe in what we're teaching."

"I assume that the ratings are based upon who you play. I was surprised when we hadn't won a game and were rated as high as 51st. But it depends on who you play, and we've sure played some tough ones," Bernier said.

Lions, MT win crucial SCOL bouts

ROLL WITH THE PUNCH — Miami Trace tri-captain Doug Ford (33) balances himself on one hand after being hit by a Circleville defender. Panthers throttle Tigers to extend victory string

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

With a winning streak dating back to 1971 of having not lost a league game at Miami Trace Field, the Miami Trace Panthers dealt with the pressure to come up with a convincing 30-14 victory over defending South Central Ohio League champ Circleville Friday night.

Whether it was the traditional victory for Homecoming or the pressure of keeping a win streak alive, the Panthers stood to the mark to win their second straight SCOL contest in as many outings.

THE PANTHERS put together three touchdowns in the first half and one touchdown in the second half while only giving up two touchdowns to the puncheon Circleville Tigers late in the game.

Miami Trace dominated the statistics in every category except passing yardage. The Miami Trace boys held the upper hand in first downs with 13 to Circleville's five. The Panthers hit the Circleville defense for 232 yards rushing while only giving up a stingy 17 yards and led in overall yardage with 290 yards to the Tigers' 152 yards.

The defense and the offense can share the honors in the victory celebration combining for their best effort so far this season. The defense held the Tigers to a limited number of offensive plays while the offense controlled the ball to give the defense plenty of time to rest.

With tri-captain Doug Ford returning to the lineup after suffering a head injury, head coach Fred Zechman knew the Panthers would have a one-two backfield combination in both Ford and Sagar. Sagar filled in for Ford so thoroughly in last week's victory over Hillsboro, but didn't realize the Panthers could dominate the game so well on the ground.

Ford carried the ball 21 times for a total of 153 yards and Sagar toted the pigskin 11 times for 42 yards. The offense also got help from hard-hitting quarterback Tom Riley, who tallied 26 yards in 14 tries and tight-end Jay Mossbarger who ran one time for 14 yards and also returned a fumble 40 yards for a touchdown.

But, the answer to Miami Trace's prayers might have been the superb job the defensive unit strung together. The Panthers defense allowed only 24 yards rushing in the first half and permitted even less in the second half by throwing the Circleville runners back for a minus seven yards. Circleville did manage 135 yards through the air, but could only collect one touchdown through the airways. Most of the Tigers' passing yardage was collected between the 20 yard lines.

The game started out as if Circleville would open the game up, when on the kickoff Jim Woods mishandled the ball and Circleville recovered the fumble. But, the Panthers held their ground and Circleville was forced to give the ball and eventually the game to Miami Trace.

Missed field goals 'Cane's only threat in WCH's romp

BY MIKE FLYNN

Washington C.H.'s Blue Lions blended a tireless performance from its selfish defensive unit with a bruising offensive punch to methodically grind down Wilmington by a one-sided 44-0 score before a bulging at the seams crowd Friday night at Gardner Park Stadium.

Although the spicy Washington C.H. offense, headed by the ground-gobbling Chuck Wilson, supplied plenty of fireworks in the annual Homecoming game, it was the persistent defense which kept Wilmington shaking in its boots throughout the game.

The hopped-up Wilmington team, which saw its chances for a South Central Ohio League football championship nearly ruined after the lopsided loss, just couldn't cope with the Lions' defensive dandies.

The Clinton Countians did manage to seriously threaten Washington C.H.'s incredible scoreless string twice, but had the door slammed in their faces on both occasions.

Rookie head coach Ron Wilt's Wilmington team, which used a late field goal for a hard-earned win over Circleville a week ago, employed the same tactic against Washington C.H., but had no success. A 25-yard field goal try was blocked, while another fell short.

It was the sixth straight shutout of the fall campaign for the unbeaten and top-ranked Blue Lions who stretched their SCOL record to a fancy 3-0 level.

The performance matched a long-standing school record turned by the 1948 Washington C.H. team for the number of shutouts during one season. The shutout erased a record set by the legendary 1952 team which had five whitewashes. The Lions now have posted 29 consecutive scoreless quarters over a two-year span.

Spearheading the defensive surge Friday was Wilson. The 6-foot-0, 180-pounder blocked one of Wilmington's field goal tries, intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble. The pass interception by Wilson was the 13th of the season for the Lions. The school record for pass thefts in a season is 15.

But, Wilson wasn't the only star for the stubborn Lion defense. Senior Steve Mosley and sophomore Richard Haithcock also pounced on Wilmington fumbles, while titanic tackles John Sanderson and Garth Cox, middle linebacker Larry Dumford and defensive ends Duke Willis and Tim O'Flynn also sparked.

While head coach Maurice Pfeifer's defense has been so outstanding in the six outings so far, the Lion offense has stacked up a bulging 220-0 scoring advantage behind the performance of Wilson.

Wilson gained a total of 182 yards in 23 rushes against Wilmington and stretched his commanding lead in the SCOL scoring race by surpassing the 100-point mark. Wilson, on the basis of the splendid four-touchdown effort, now has scored 102 points in six games. Wilson gained 113 yards before halftime.

Team captain Mark Johnson turned in his usual fine performance by gaining 34 yards in five carries and grabbing four of Alan Coppock's passes for 68 yards. The velvety senior half-back also scored on a 19-yard hookup with Coppock and the same two combined for an extra point conversion.

straight undisputed SCOL title were ruined when head coach Larry Cook's Tigers dropped their second league game in three starts. Wilmington is now 2-1 in the league race and is still a bonafide contender.

Elsewhere in Friday's SCOL rumble, Madison Plains posted its first win in six outings this year by nudging Greenfield McClain in a 14-8 struggle on the Golden Eagle gridiron. It was the sixth consecutive loss for Greenfield.

In other action involving SCOL teams Friday, state-ranked Frankfort Adena rolled up a comfortable 40-0 halftime bulge and then breezed to a 48-8 win over Hillsboro.

junior fullback, threw several key blocks to spring the Wilson and Johnson, while also picking up 50 yards in five totes.

Junior Jeff Brown had another fine game as he engineered a late Blue Lion scoring march by gaining 27 yards on only two carries. Brown also boomed a punt totaling 55 yards and finished the game with a nifty 38.0 average on four punts.

Jackie Watson, the quick-stepping Wilmington halfback, had plenty of problems against the rugged Lion defenders as he gained only 30 yards in 15 attempts and had lost a total of 13 yards before intermission. Brad Reynolds was the top rusher for the Hurricane with 47 yards in 11 tries while Kip Collins gained 39 yards.

Actually, Washington C.H. had the contest sewed up in the first half. But Wilmington's serious scoring bids were mounted following intermission.

The Lions zoomed to a 14-0 first quarter advantage as Wilson scored on a 10-yard jaunt and Johnson grabbed a 29-yard aerial from Coppock for a touchdown. Johnson and Coppock combined for 68 yards through the air in the first period, while Wilson and Dumford were handling the running chores.

1948 Blue Lion gridders hold school shutout mark

Washington C.H.'s shutout win over Wilmington Friday night did not shatter a school record as advertised earlier this week.

Since complete school records are nearly impossible to check, it was believed that a five-shutout performance turned in by the legendary 1952 Washington C.H. team was the record.

But, the 1948 team, which registered a fine 8-8-1 record, holds the school record with six shutouts. The 1948 Blue Lions led the South Central Ohio League championship slip away with a 16-13 loss to Circleville in that season.

Only three of the shutouts were fired

After a fumble recovery by Haithcock on the Washington C.H. 15-yard line, Lions marched 74 yards to paydirt with Wilson capping the time consuming drive on a four-yard run with 6:26 left in the half. Kevin Terry grabbed a pass from Coppock for the extras. Later in the period, Wilson intercepted a pass and returned it to the Wilmington five. Wilson scored on a five-yard burst and Rittenhouse and Coppock combed through the air for a 30-0 lead with 1:17 remaining before halftime.

It was after the Lions coughed up a fumble on the kickoff to open the second half that Washington C.H.'s defensive bubble almost burst. Wilmington took over at the Lion 26-yard line and marched to the nine where the Lions buttoned their chin straps and stopped the Clinton Countians cold on two straight plays. David Hamilton attempted a 27-yard field goal but it fell short.

On the Lions' next series, Brown boomed the 55-yard punt and on Wilmington's first play, Mosley recovered a fumble. Two plays later Wilson scored on a 23-yard run for a 36-0 lead with 6:44 left in the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, a low snap from center helped Wilmington block a Brown punt attempt and Tim Carr recovered the ball at the Lions' six-yard line. After three unsuccessful attempts, including a dropped pass in the end zone, Hamilton attempted another field goal which was batted down by Wilson. Washington C.H. took over and marched 80-yards with tailback David Payton scoring on a one-yard run with 11 seconds to play and Brown carried the mail for the extras.

consecutively and the last one was a 0-0 stalemate in the season finale against Columbus Bexley.

So, Friday night's performance by head coach Maurice Pfeifer's Blue Lions matches the 1948 team's effort, but it must be pointed out that the 1973 Lions have registered six straight shutouts. The 29 consecutive scoreless quarters over a two-year span is a school record.

Incidentally, Gene Sagar was captain of the 1948 team and his daughter, Dianne, was this year's Washington C.H. Homecoming queen.

Candidate for Veep rose from ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's choice of Gerald R. Ford as vice president marks the third time that his political career has been given a swift, surprising boost.

The affable, pipe-smoking former Big Ten football star rose out of the ranks of House Republicans 10 years ago in a sudden coup that installed him as chairman of the party caucus.

Two years later he vaulted into the party leadership post over an unsuspecting Charles A. Halleck and remained there until Nixon picked him

Mead reports dramatic gain in earnings

DAYTON — Mead reports record net earnings of $14,318,000 in the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1973. In the comparable period last year, the company earned $5,925,000 before extraordinary items.

Earnings amounted to 80 cents per share, after provision for preferred dividends, compared with 24 cents per share in the same quarter of 1972, an over three-fold increase.

Net earnings for the first three quarters of 1973 totaled $36,299,000, or $1.93 per share. Last year Mead's net for the first nine months was $18,246,000 or 73 cents per share before extraordinary items, an increase per share of over 2½ times.

Mead also reported record sales during the third quarter totaling $338,662,000 compared with $293,934,000 in the third quarter of 1972. Sales for the first three quarters of 1973 were $967,883,000, up 14 per cent from the total of $847,148,000 in the comparable period of 1972.

"Mead's white paper operations provided the largest swing in the improved earnings," according to James W. McSwiney, chairman of the board. "In addition to strong demand for paper, operations at our new pulp and paper complex in Escanaba, Mich., have improved dramatically," McSwiney said.

McSwiney noted that the improvement in Mead's paper and related business began late last year and was reflected in the fourth quarter when the company earned 35 cents a share before extraordinary items. "If operations continue at present levels, without major work stoppages or equipment outages, earnings for the fourth quarter should be comfortably ahead of the fourth quarter in 1972," he said.

Clouds crept across Ohio from the west overnight, signaling the approach of a storm system that was expected to trigger showers across the state today.

Temperatures last night were milder than for several days, ranging from 65 at Toledo and Findlay to below 60 at Youngstown and Zanesville.

The National Weather Service said the wet weather system over the Midwest picked up speed over the Great Lakes and should move out of the state by this evening.

Cloudy skies and a little cooler weather is forecast Sunday. High temperatures were predicted in the 60s.

Ohio is in for generally fair weather early next week. Highs Monday through Wednesday will be in the 60s with lows in the 40s and low 50s.

Friday night as Spiro T. Agnew's replacement.

Ford's two House promotions were engineered by a group of young GOP activists for much the same reasons that Nixon chose him as vice president — his quiet hard work, unswerving loyalty to the Republican Party, and his wide popularity among his colleagues.

Now 60, Ford claims to have no further political ambitions, but his expected confirmation as vice president would stamp him clearly as a presidential prospect in 1976.

Ford's popularity among both Democrats and Republicans in Congress may be put to the test by the confirmation hearings that will begin soon in the House and Senate.

Both Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., and Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairmen of the committees that will conduct the hearings, have promised a searching inquiry and within minutes of Nixon's announcement, newspaper files were turning up potentially trouble for Ford.

He failed to report $11,500 in 1970 campaign contributions to Congress. Ford said at the time he was within the law in his handling of the money but he is certain to face close questioning about the matter.

Ford, who was born in Omaha on July 14, 1913, but raised in Grand Rapids, Mich., where he still lives, has been one of Nixon's prime assets on Capitol Hill. It is due largely to his effective leadership of the Republican minority that the House has sustained a series of Nixon vetoes this year.

The late President Lyndon B. Johnson didn't prize him so highly — once referring to him as "a nice fellow, but he played too much football without a helmet."

Ford played center on the University of Michigan football team in the 1930s, being named most valuable player in his senior year. He still tries to keep active in sports, using a backyard swimming pool in his suburban Alexandria, Va., home for daily dips in the summer and skiing whenever the opportunity arises in the winter.

He and his wife have four children, all now grown.

JHS library expansion eyed

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the superintendent's office at the Junior High School building to consider enlarging the Junior High School library.

Two small rooms across the hall from the library might be used as an extension to library facilities. The cost to furnish and equip the rooms is estimated at $5,194.

An outline has been submitted by the junior and senior high school principals for the 7-12 grade music curriculum. Board approval of the curriculum has been requested.

The board also will set a policy for home tutoring services to students who are unable to attend school and will consider Victor Pontious for the position of ninth grade basketball coach.

Arrests

Three juveniles were arrested Friday night: two for fighting at Gardner Park during the football game and one for intoxication.

For those interested in their family backgrounds, but don't know how to go about finding the details, there will be a briefing session in the basement room of Carnegie Public Library here Sunday afternoon during a meeting of the South Central Ohio Genealogical Society.

The society has around 50 members and most of them are expected at the meeting here. George Robinson, 445 W. Circle Ave., is the president, and Mrs. Richard P. Rankin is one of the society's most active members here.

New recruiters named

Sgt. 1-C William L. Bradshaw and Sgt. 1-C Carl L. Harmon have been assigned to this district as Army recruiters.

Based at Circleville, they will be in Washington C.H., probably alternately, from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Post Office. They succeed Sgt. 1-C Donald Warner, who has been named assistant area supervisor and transferred to the Columbus recruiting station.

Frozen fries most popular potato item

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the frozen french fry could become the king of the potato domain by 1980.

According to USDA projections, the per capita use of all potatoes and their products will climb about eight pounds by 1980 to an average of about 127 pounds per year.

Further, experts say frozen french fries could capture one-third of the market by then, which would make them the single most popular potato item. In 1970 the per capita frozen fry rate was 28 pounds, but that was quadruple the 1960 average of seven pounds per capita, according to the department's Statistical Research Service.

Frozen french fries are among the few foods which have gotten cheaper, says the department. Nine ounces cost 19.7 cents in 1960, but only 16.6 cents in 1970. Even with the higher prices last summer, they still averaged 17.1 cents or less than in 1960, officials said in a report.

The dissenters, both Nixon appointees, were Judges George MacKinnon and Malcolm Wilkie.

WILL IT BE BROKEN? — Dwight Foy (left) Bible School superintendent, and Rev. Charles Richmond, minister of the South Side Church of Christ, point to a poster which depicts an old attendance record of 434. This record, set on Easter Sunday in 1956, is being challenged this Sunday during the Bible School hour. All efforts are being made to break the attendance record, and if it is broken Sunday morning the actual record will be smashed over the Bible School superintendent's head by the minister during the morning worship service. The public is invited to the 9:30 a.m. service. "Break the Record Day" is being held in conjunction with an evangelistic meeting which will conclude Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Wally Rendel, Lexington, Ky., is the evangelist, and Grant Layman, Lancaster, is the song evangelist.

Genealogical briefing Sunday

Mrs. Rankin said many people of the community are interested in their family trees, but not many know how to trace their antecedents. The session at the library for beginners, she explained, is designed to give at least the fundamentals of genealogical study.

While the beginners are in session, the other members of the society will hold a short meeting and spend much of the time pouring over books and records. Mrs. Rankin said the library here has one of the biggest and best

Sgt. Bradshaw has served three tours of duty in Germany and in Vietnam as well as at many installations in the United States.

Sgt. Harmon, a native of Amanda, Pickaway County, is a veteran of 18 years of Army service. He has served in Germany, Korea, Vietnam and on many Army posts in the United States.

The two sergeants said the Army makes a "fine career" for a young man now that the pay, even for recruits, is as good or better than many civilian jobs and that schools and opportunities are almost limitless.

County board agenda posted

A number of matters appear on the agenda for the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular semi-monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster said board members will be considering requests from two teachers for leaves of absence, will approve a list of volunteers to assist in various schools and identify an official delegate to attend the Ohio School Board Association's annual meeting Nov. 13-15 in Columbus.

The board will also hear a request from head basketball coach Dale Creamer concerning basketball coaches attending a clinic in Columbus Oct. 19, consider the extension of a contract with Miles Chester for grass cutting, set dates for baccalaureate and commencement exercises next spring and review a contract with the Pickaway County Media Services for rental of films and other audio-visual aids.

Reports from Kenneth Payton, board president, on the junior high bond issue and on the vocational school, and from Marion Waddle on the athletic association meeting will be presented.

McNair to greet visiting minister

The second in a series of lectures will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the McNair Presbyterian Church, according to the Rev. Wilbur Bullock.

The Rev. Ralph Wolford, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be the speaker Sunday. Two more lecture series are scheduled for the month of October.

Crop forecasts dip slightly, but remain above last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are gathering record crops of corn and soybeans this fall, but the harvest is not quite as large as the Agriculture Department thought a month ago.

The 1973 corn crop, based on Oct. 1 field surveys, is estimated at more than 5.76 billion bushels, down five million from September indications, the department said Friday.

But that still would be 4 per cent, about 210 million bushels, more than 1972 production.

Moreover, a 2 per cent boost in sorghum prospects during the month raised overall feed grain production this year to an estimated 211 million tons. That would be slightly more than indicated in September and 6 per cent above last year's output.

The estimate also includes corn, oats and barley.

Soybean production estimates shrank 1 per cent — 10 million bushels — from September, but at nearly 1.59 billion bushels the crop still would up 24 per cent from last year.

The sorghum crop, produced mostly in the Great Plains, was put at more than 999 million bushels, the biggest ever and 22 per cent more than last year.

Cotton production was estimated at 13.1 million bales, a 1 per cent improvement from September prospects but 4 per cent less than in 1972 when farmers planted more acres.

Opening lead - queen of spades.
Dear Mr. Becker: I am not a really good bridge player, and I am furthermore sure that most if not all of my partners would enthusiastically support this statement.
But there are times when I do play a hand unexpectedly well, and — believe it or not — my performance on those rare occasions is far beyond the ability of all but a handful of bridge players. The only trouble is that my Herculean feats occur only when I am asleep, deep in the arms of Morpheus. I can't understand how or why I can play so extraordinarily well in my dreams and then change into the worst kind of a palooka as soon as I awake.

For example, look at this hand I played last night while fast asleep. I don't think West should have doubled six spades, for in effect he let the cat out of the bag so far as the trump division was concerned.

I very nimbly ran to six notrump, West doubling again, but this time I had him over a barrel.

He led the queen of spades and you would think that in view of the critical shortage of entries to dummy I could not possibly make the slam but, by brilliant play, I was able to wrap up the contract.

I won the spade lead with the king, returned the ten of hearts, and then, after West followed low, finessed the jack! The finesse succeeding, I led the king of diamonds from dummy and discarded the ace of hearts on it!

West took the ace, but whatever he returned I was bound to make the rest of the tricks. It was like taking candy from a baby! Sincerely yours, Constant Reader.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Will Your Stroke Recur?

One of the greatest burdens that presents itself to patients who have suffered strokes, their families, and their doctors, is the unknown factor of "will recovery take place?" The possibility of prognosticating recovery may soon be a reality.

Dr. Milton G. Ettinger and his co-workers at the Hennipin County General Hospital in Minneapolis believe that special blood tests may outline the possible return of functions to patients who have suffered strokes.

Should these tests, still in their early phase of investigation, be found to be more definite, they will indeed be a tremendous contribution, medically and psychologically, to everyone involved in the care of these patients.

Otosclerosis is a very special condition that involves the bones of the middle ear. This hereditary condition is responsible for the loss of hearing that occurs more frequently in women than in men.

It is for this particular type of deafness that the Fenestration operation, and later the Stapes operation, were designed. A significant contribution that may prevent progressive loss of hearing due to Otosclerosis is the idea of using fluoroide for this purpose.

Dr. George E. Shambaugh, Jr., of the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago, first conceived of this idea. Since then, a group of ear surgeons have been studying the value of sodium fluoride to interrupt the progress of this disease. The investigators of this unique concept emphasize that sodium fluoride does not restore hearing to normal, but rather may preserve the hearing that remains.

Patients with severe, stubborn problems of intractable pain are now being studied intensively to find means of controlling it.

A wide array of surgical procedures is now being tried by neurosurgeons all over this country.

Operations on the brain and electronic devices are said to be highly effective in altering pain that cannot be controlled by the methods now available.

Dr. A.E. Walker of the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore is trying surgical procedures which heretofore were deemed too courageous.

Dr. Walker and his co-workers are exhausting every conceivable avenue to provide relief for uncontrollable pain.

Major Veep duties didn't last long

WASHINGTON (AP) — When he took office nearly five years ago, President Nixon announced he would assign Spiro T. Agnew "new duties beyond what any vice president had ever assumed."

But things did not work out that way for long.

At the start, Nixon gave Agnew an office in the White House near his own, a special sign of prestige, and announced he was giving his vice president a major policy-making role and trimming down the ceremonial duties.

Agnew, who resigned from office Wednesday and pleaded no contest to a tax-evasion charge, had his own eight-passenger jet plane that his staff called Air Force II. He enjoyed excursions abroad as Nixon's diplomatic and goodwill emissary.

Nixon, vice president under Dwight D. Eisenhower for eight years himself, even created a mini-bureaucracy for Agnew to preside over. By executive order, he made his running mate head of the Office of Intergovernmental Relations, which was to be a clearing house for the prompt handling of problems generated at state and local levels by federal policies. He also became vice chairman of the Domestic Council. Barely a year after he was installed in his White House office, Agnew moved to his other quarters in the Executive Office Building and the Capitol.

An aide explained that a space shortage had developed in the White House because of the growth of the presidential staff, and since Agnew had used his executive mansion office infrequently, he "felt like he ought to give it up."

Less than three years after its creation, the Office of Intergovernmental Affairs was abolished and placed under the Domestic Council.

Agnew's staff members complained privately that he had been frozen out of domestic decisions by John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's now-departed domestic-affairs chief.

Then Agnew suffered a 10 per cent cut in staff, part of a Nixon order reducing White House personnel.

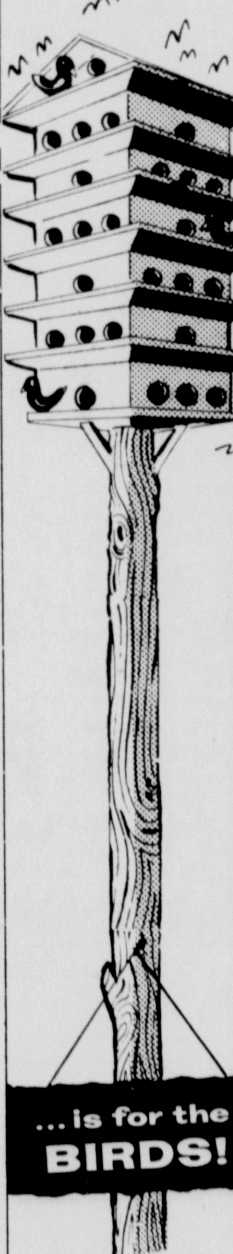

By statute, the vice president is president of the Senate, attends cabinet meetings, heads the National Aeronautics and Space Council and the National Council on Indian Opportunity and is a member of the National Security Council and the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Ohio sues to get EPA sewage funds

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has filed suit against the federal Environmental Protection Agency in a fight to force the EPA to release $6 billion in sewage treatment funds.

The money, part of an $11 billion appropriation, was impounded earlier this year by President Nixon, who said spending the total amount would be inflationary.

(Included among the projects which will not receive federal funding if the Nixon Administration's impoundment policy is not reversed is a proposal for a new sewage treatment plant and interceptor sewers at Bloomingsburg. The project, at an estimated cost of $930,000, has been given No. 126 priority among 225 Ohio proposals.)

Suits challenging the impounding are already on file in four other states, and Brown appealed for three more states—Kentucky, Michigan and Tennessee—to join the Ohio action. The four states constitute the 6th federal judicial circuit.

Brown charged in his U.S. District Court suit that the state's share of the federal money was illegally cut by $350 million when the funds were frozen. And he said the move would stop sewage treatment projects planned in 149 Ohio cities during the next two years.

The suit said that Ohio's share of the sewage treatment funds should have been $635 million for 1973 and 1974 but that the impounding reduced it to $289 million.

Drivers charged after accidents

Two persons were cited for failing to stop within assured clear distance in connection with accidents investigated by the Police Department Friday. One of the accidents involved three vehicles.

Rose L. Cornell, 41, of 1016 E. Market St., was charged after she struck a trailer hauled by Lawrence Elkins, 63, New Holland, Friday morning. Elkins had stopped for a red light at Temple and Hinde streets. There were no injuries, but damage to the car driven by Mrs. Cornell was extensive.

Friday afternoon, James E. Stewart, 25, of 1014 E. Market St., was cited after he ran into the rear of a truck driven by Charles R. Lomerson, 46, Bush Rd. Lomerson was stopped behind a car at a traffic light at East and S. Main streets. Neither Stewart, Lomerson, nor Dryden D. Martin, 28, Jeffersonville, driver of the other car were injured and damage was minor.

Flood toll reaches 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floods in five Midwest states kept thousands of persons out of their homes today as a search for bodies of possible victims continued.

At least eight were confirmed dead — one in Kansas and seven in Oklahoma — but 35 persons were listed as missing at Enid, Okla.

Enid was hardest hit by the flash floods, and a search was continuing along Boggy Creek for the missing.

Five of the confirmed deaths were in Enid.

Crests on the Kansas, Little Platte and Missouri rivers were expected to arrive in the Kansas City area early today. The streams surged through weakened levees into low-lying areas of five counties.

No-fault bill action delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings on a House-passed nofault insurance bill will not begin in the Senate until after the Ohio Department of Insurance completes a study of costs, Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, says.

Aronoff is chairman of the Senate committee that will consider the issue when the legislature reconvenes in regular session Jan. 2.

Aronoff said he wants a study of costs of the House measure and of alternatives as well.

Gerald Ford: who is HE?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Gerald who?" was the question of some as President Richard Nixon announced Friday night that he was nominating House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

Ford, 60, a Michigan resident who has served in Congress for 25 years, was unfamiliar to many. Mrs. Tina Moore, 49, the manager of Jocko's Pizza in Atlanta, Ga., commented, "To tell you the truth, I don't recognize the name. I wish it were Nixon who was being replaced. I think we should have another election."

Al Ruben, a cab driver in Manhattan, said: "I never heard of 'im. What's he done?"

Robert Glenn, a Boise, Idaho, resident who described himself as a Republican, "almost a Bircher," said Ford was "as good as any of them. He's kept his nose clean and his mouth shut."

For some people, the name was vaguely familiar, but that was about all.

"Sen. Ford?" asked a cashier at a Philadelphia restaurant. "Sure I know him. He's one of the Ford family," she said joking. "I'll be honest though, we've never heard of him."

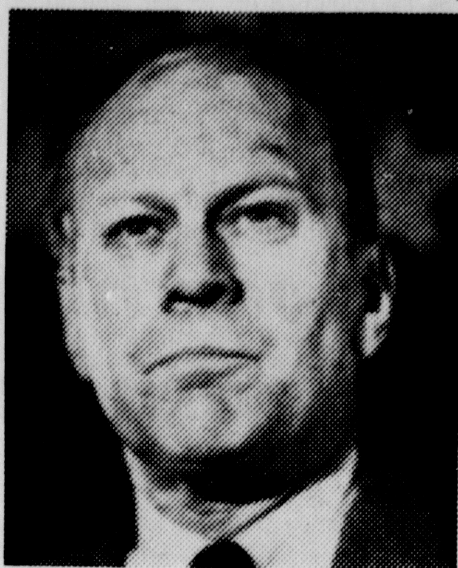

But in Ford's hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich., most residents were happy and surprised at the news.

"Beautiful. It's not going to hurt us any here in Grand Rapids," said Bob Finch, a self-employed businessman.

Grand Rapids, a city of more than 200,000, is the largest metropolitan area in Ford's solidly Republican district covering Kent and Ionia counties in western Lower Michigan.

In 13 congressional races, Ford has never failed to collect at least 62 per cent of the vote. About 95 per cent of the district is white.

"I don't really know, but I think he would be better than Agnew," said Eloyce Chandler, an assembler at Grand Rapids Metalcraft. She said she particularly liked Ford's work in obtaining a federally funded housing project.

State Republican leaders, whom Nixon had sought to involve in the selection process, applauded the nomination of Ford.

"Ford will assume a heavy responsibility for helping the administration repair its damage and regain public confidence," commented Richard Rosenbaum, New York state GOP chairman.

Jack Ransom, Kansas state chairman, joined his counterparts in other states in predicting quick congressional approval of the nomination and said:

"I think it's indicative of the President's desire to heal some of the wounds caused by the differences between the two political parties. I think it's an outstanding choice."

Dr. Ben Clayburgh, national committeeman from North Dakota, said he was confident Ford would pass a rigorous examination by Congress. "If he had any skeletons in the closet, they would have come out many years ago," Clayburgh said.

Nixon certain to appeal order to yield tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears certain to appeal to the Supreme Court a federal appeals court ruling demanding surrender of White House tapes for judicial examination.

In a 5 to 2 decision Friday, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's decision ordering the tapes turned over to him.

The appeals court gave the President until next Friday to ask the Supreme Court to review its decision.

The President "is not above the law's commands," the court said in rejecting Nixon's contention that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers prohibits one branch of government from forcing another branch to obey its commands.

There was no immediate comment from the White House, where attention was focused Friday night on the presidential nomination of Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., for vice president.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who had subpoenaed tapes of nine presidential conversations about Watergate, has argued that the tapes are essential to the grand jury's attempt to determine the extent of the conspiracy to obstruct the probe of the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Charles Alan Wright, lawyer for the President, had argued that the doctrine of executive privilege and the Constitution gave Nixon sole authority to decide if presidential documents could be turned over either to the courts or to Congress.

In asking the appeals court to reverse Sirica's decision, Wright had argued that ordering release of the tapes would breach the traditional confidentiality of presidential discussions with his aides, and "from that moment on it would be simply impossible for any president of the United States to function."

Cox had contended that not even the President was above the law and that the tapes were unique in that they were evidence in a grand jury investigation of possible criminal activity.

The unsigned opinion by the five-judge majority referred to Cox's (Please turn to Page 7)

Jordan troops aid Syria

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan announced today it has committed "elite troops" to help the Syrian army fighting Israel on the Syrian front.

"We have committed part of our elite forces to play their part with the Syrian army on the Syrian front," a military spokesman said, according to Peter Salah of the Jordanian Information Ministry.

Tank battles resumed early today on the dusty road to Damascus, and Israeli units eliminated most Iraqi forces shoring up the remaining Syrian lines in the Golan Heights, the Israeli military command said.

There was no immediate Syrian or Iraqi response to the claims.

The Israeli command said the ground combat began at dawn after a quiet night on the northern front. Israeli armored columns on Friday penetrated 15 miles inside Syria and to within 25 miles of Damascus, the Israeli state radio said.

Correspondents with the Israeli forces said some elements had penetrated to within 20 miles of the Syrian capital.

An Israeli communique issued early today said "most of the Iraqi forces that entered the fighting in the Golan Heights have been eliminated" and "the remnants of the force are retreating." It did not mention numbers or say how many Iraqis remained ready to fight inside Syria.

A Syrian communique Friday conceded that the Israeli armored offensive made initial headway but claimed the Israelis were beaten back later "in continual violent battles."

The communique, which claimed Syria had destroyed 78 Israeli tanks as well as halftracks and artillery pieces in the counterattack, did not say how far the Israelis had advanced.

Associated Press correspondent Paul Kohn said the route to Damascus was littered with wrecked Syrian tanks and charred bodies and that Syrian soldiers were surrendering to the Jewish forces. Based on reports from the Israeli command and from newsmen, Damascus

House Leader Gerald Ford choice for Vice President

Ford approval seems assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urging Americans to put aside old obsessions for a new beginning, President Nixon today sends a receptive Democratic Congress his vice presidential nomination of House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Both the House and Senate were poised to vote the swift confirmation the President sought in the name of national unity.

Nixon announced his choice Friday night in a nationally televised ceremony, with only oblique mention of the corruption scandal that forced Spiro T. Agnew's resignation Wednesday from the nation's second highest office.

Within hours, it was clear Ford was breezing toward easy confirmation, perhaps within a week or two, barring adverse disclosures during congressional hearings.

An Associated Press survey found Ford with 52 votes, one more than needed for confirmation. None of the senators initially contacted were opposed, but nine said they were reserving judgment pending the hearings.

At the same time, 131 House members said they would vote for Ford, two said they were opposed and 15 were undecided or withholding comment.

The President clearly had the Watergate and Agnew scandals in mind when he told the nation "it is vital that we turn away from the obsessions of the past, and turn to the great challenges of the future."

"This is a time for a new beginning for America, a new beginning in which we all dedicate ourselves to the tasks of meeting the challenges we face, seizing the opportunities for greatness and meeting the dangers wherever they are, at home and abroad."

The beaming 60-year-old Ford bounded to Nixon's side from his front row seat in the White House East Room and accepted the nomination with a promise to work "to make America a united America."

The tall, pipe-smoking lawyer and former college football star has represented a western Michigan district in the House for 25 years, building a reputation as a staunch party man and a strong supporter of Nixon's policies.

His selection immediately placed his name high on the list of Republican contenders for the presidency in 1976.

As he left the White House Friday night, Ford told newsmen "I have no intentions to run in 1976 for president or for vice president."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon solved one problem when he picked Gerald R. Ford to be vice president, but created another by opening the way for a fight for Ford's old job as House Republican leader.

"We're probably going to have a little blood-letting," said Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, Friday night after joining his House colleagues in a general acclamation for Ford's nomination.

In his eight years as minority leader

Ford stilled the in-fighting between the conservative and moderate wings of the House Republicans, forming them into an effective force that won more than its share of battles with the majority Democrats.

But Friday afternoon, when his selection as vice president was still conjecture, battle lines were already being drawn in anticipation that a new Republican leader would be needed.

In the GOP hierarchy, Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R-Ill., the Republican whip, is second in command. But Arends is 77, has served under three leaders since becoming whip in 1943 and seems content to remain the number two man. Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., 51, chairman of the House Republican Conference — the party caucus — holds the third ranked job and is interested in moving up. But Anderson is regarded as too liberal by a large segment of his colleagues.

It was Homecoming!

were (left) Darla Woodfork, a freshmen, and Patsy Prater, junior; (right) Sue Conner, senior, and Diane Burke, sophomore. The evening was made complete when their Panther gridders whipped the Tigers from Circleville, 30 to 14, in an SCOL game.

junior, when they not only subdued the Hurricane gridders from Wilmington, 44 to 0, but also kept their goal uncrossed for the season's shutout in a row Friday night before a packed stadium for the annual WSHS Homecoming game.

It was the one big night of the year for hundreds of football fans here and a once-in-a-lifetime experience for nine pretty high school girls at the Homecoming games of Washington Senior High School and Miami Trace High School.

The queens and their courts reigned over the football games from special boxes in the stadium; and the football teams of both schools contributed to the joy of the occasion with victories — the Lions of WSHS with a 44 to 0 shutout of the Wilmington Hurricane and the MTHS Panthers with a 30 to 14 victory over the Circleville Tigers.

Preceded by the WSHS band the queen and her attendants formed a parade through the business district from the Junior High School to the Gardner Park stadium for the pre-game ceremonies. After circling the field in convertibles Queen Dianne and her court came to the point of a V formed by the band where the queen presented the game ball to Lion Captain Mark Johnson.

Queen Connie Staybrook, of MTHS, and her attendants, freshman Darla Woodfork, sophomore Diane Burke, junior Patsy Prater and senior Sue Conner, circled the MTHS field in convertibles and then took their places in front of the stands where last year's queen, Kathy Woodfork, crowned Queen Connie. The latter presented the game ball to Captain Doug Ford. The MTHS Band provided the musical backdrop for the ceremonies.

The crowds started coming early for the WSHS Homecoming and the annual WAFCO fish fry before the game. By kickoff time, both sides of the stadium were packed to capacity, including a big delegation from Wilmington.

Agnew schedules TV talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently determined to vindicate himself as much as possible from criminal allegations, former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has scheduled a television address to the nation on Monday night.

Arrangements for the speech, to be broadcast live on all three national networks, were disclosed Friday night, shortly after President Nixon announced he would nominate Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House minority leader, as Agnew's successor.

Agnew, who has spent the last two days working on his address in his private office next door to the White House, was assumed by aides to have watched Nixon's telecast.

However, there were no indications that he planned to comment on it.

Agnew resigned his post on Wednesday, pleading no contest to a felony charge of federal income tax evasion. He was fined $10,000 and sentenced to three years probation.

In exchange, the government agreed not to prosecute him on allegations including extortion, bribery and conspiracy. The evidence against Agnew was compiled in a federal investigation of alleged kickbacks and corruption in Maryland, where Agnew served as a county executive and as governor in the 1960s.

The allegations were set forth in a 40-page document made public by the Justice Department simultaneously with Agnew's court hearing.

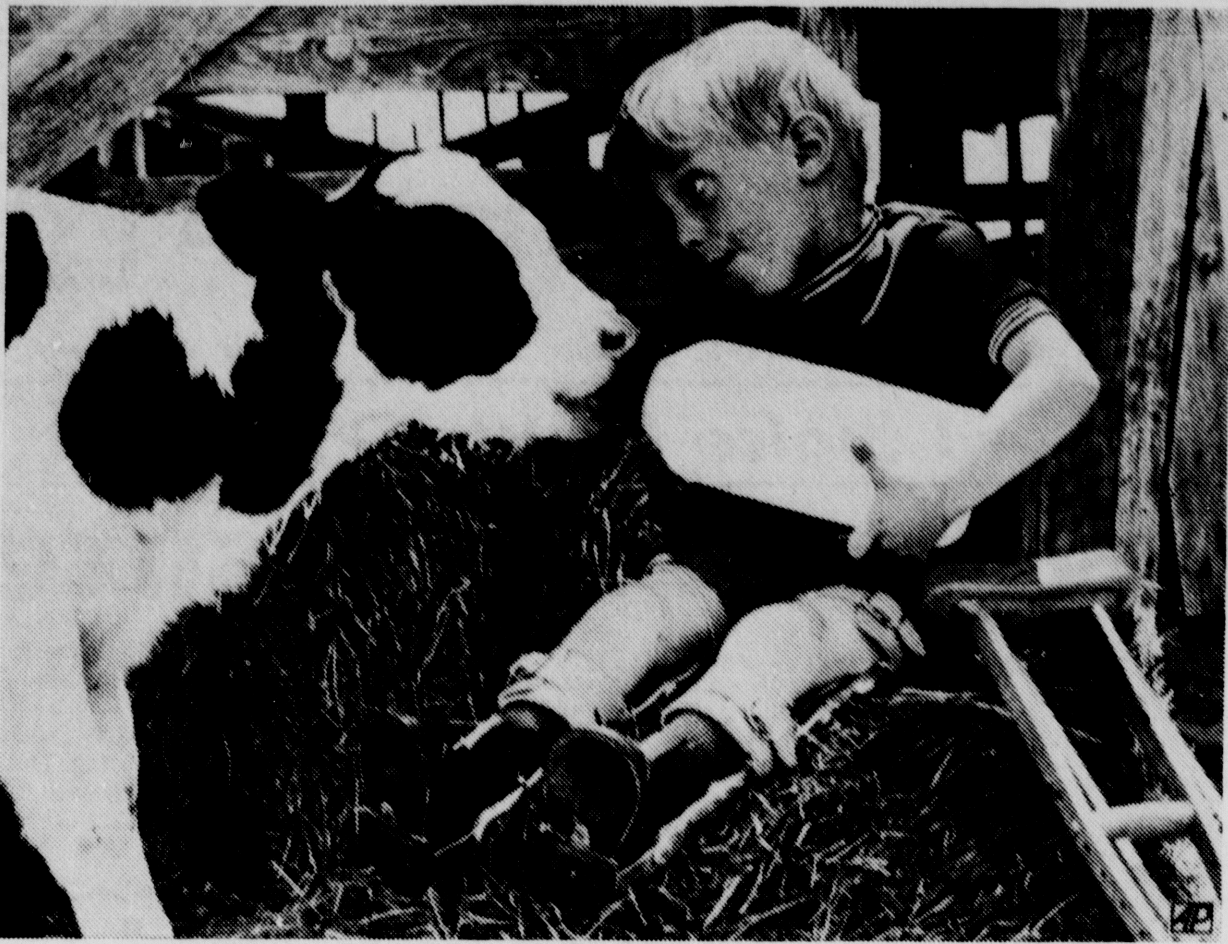

Agnew, while conceding guilt on the income tax charge, denied the other accusations and was expected to give a detailed defense of himself in the Monday night address.

Understanding Issue No. 1 before November election

COLUMBUS — Issue One on the November 6 Election Day ballot for Ohio voters to consider doesn't appear to be well understood by many voters. That's the belief of Paul R. Thomas, Extension resource development specialist at Ohio State University. To accurately judge this issue, he points out, voters should be as well informed about it as possible.

Issue One is a constitutional amendment which, if passed, would permit the Ohio General Assembly to enact legislation allowing appraisal of farm land for tax purposes according to the land's agricultural use value rather than its potential value for development, etc. The wording of the issue also makes possible legislation for recoupment of some of the tax difference, should the land use be changed.

Now farm land in Ohio is taxed according to its probable or potential use rather than its agricultural use. This means that many farmers near or within the influence of cities or towns are faced with high tax payments on their land because it may be near an industrial or residential area.

ABOUT 30 states already have passed laws relating to taxation of agricultural land, Thomas reveals. Of these states, 13 have deferred taxation laws which allow a land-owner to postpone part of his tax payment until he sells or develops the land. Eleven of the states assess land devoted to agricultural uses on the basis of its current use or value in agriculture, and market values reflecting potential uses are ignored.

For the state of Ohio, about six per cent of all real estate taxes come from farm land. Taxing land according to its present use for agricultural purposes is not expected to roll back taxes much, if any, from current levels, Thomas reveals, but rather to prevent drastic increases in farm real estate taxes in future years, in some instances.

Part of these drastic increases could come as a result of the 35 per cent equalization rule which became effective in Jan. 1972. This requires that various classes of property be assessed uniformly in each county and that a uniform level of assessment also be made throughout the state. The level of assessment is 35 per cent of market value. So far, 18 counties have undergone reappraisal based on the equalization rule and property classified as "agricultural" appears to require the greatest amount of increase.

How will the outcome of Issue One affect food prices? Thomas sees no noticeable price in the short run, regardless of the outcome. In the long run he says failure of Issue One would exert upward pressure on the price of land used for farming. This is because more farmers in the metropolitan areas would sell their land to non-farm users. Some of them would attempt to purchase other farms and thus bid up land prices on the urban fringe and in rural areas. The resulting higher farm land values would be capitalized into a high cost of production and hence higher food prices over time, the specialist believes.

If you would like further information on Issue One, request a copy of "Agricultural Land Taxation, Questions and Answers Regarding Issue One" from your county Extension office or from Thomas at 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus Ohio 43210.

Crop loans for harvesttime income

As area farmers complete harvest operations this fall and finalize sales plans for the unmarketed portion of their crops they should not overlook the availability of commodity loans offered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) as a possible part of their marketing planning.

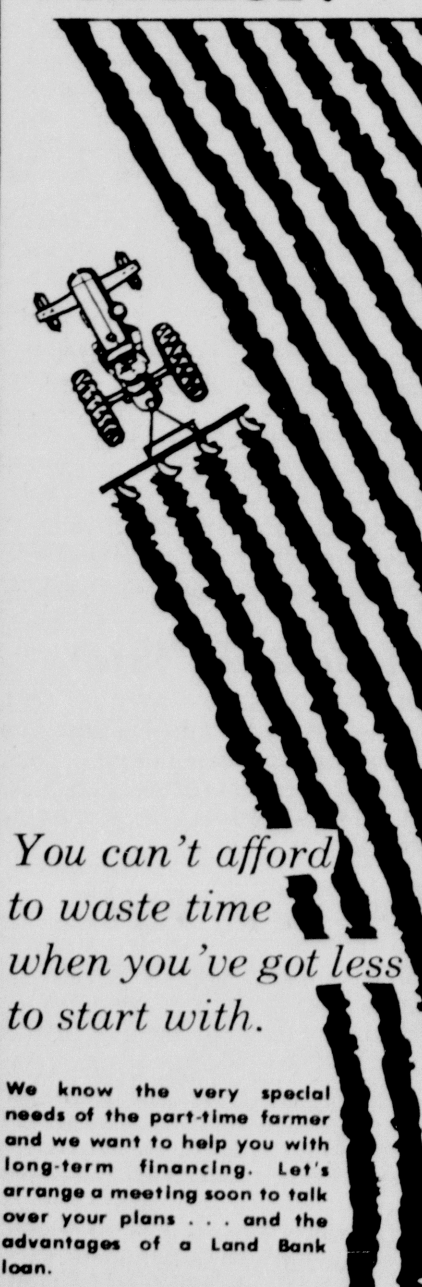

This reminder comes from Chester J. Phillips, executive director of the Fayette County ASCS office. Phillips explains that while current market prices are above the 1973 loan rates for the commodities under the loan program, producers may find advantages in the loan program for between-crop income if they plan to sell at a later date, thus providing themselves with greater independence in their crop marketing. Loans are on several crops grown in Fayette County, including, corn, soybeans, wheat, oats and grain sorghum.

Phillips emphasized that ASCS is not in a position to advise farmers when or how to market, but he does feel an obligation to remind producers that the loan program is available for those who want to utilize it as a marketing tool in obtaining maximum crop income. Even though market prices are above loan, it's good business for producers to be aware of the marketing options available to them, Phillips said. Government loans are one of several techniques. Other options include forward contracting, hedging the crop through the use of futures markets, periodic partial sales, as well as combinations of the various techniques, Phillips said. Producers interested in utilizing the commodity loan program should contact the county ASCS office, he added.

Nominations open for ASC election

Nominations for candidates for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee will be open through Monday, Oct. 29, reports George C. Speakman, chairman of the Fayette County ASC Committee.

Under the ASC farmer-elected committee system, programs such as wheat, feed grain, farm facility loan, grain loans and other federal farm programs are administered by local farmers. Elections are held annually by mail and newly-elected committee members take office on Jan. 1 of each year.

Preceding the Nov.-Dec. mail election, any three farmers may nominate a candidate by signing a petition. Farmers may sign as many petitions as they like. The petition may be on any sheet of paper as long as it includes a statement that the nominee has agreed to serve if elected. Nominating petitions must be turned in at the Fayette County ASCS Office, not later than Oct. 29.

If fewer than six candidates are nominated by petition, the county and community committeemen now in office will fill out the slate.

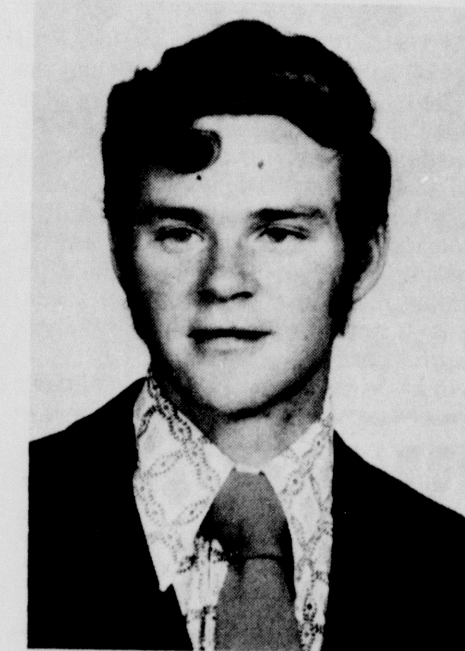

Those eligible to nominate, run for office, and vote in ASC committee elections include farm owners, tenants and sharecroppers, age 18 or older, without regard to race, religion, color, sex, or national origin. A wife who operates a farm with her husband and whose name is on the deed can nominate, be nominated, vote and serve on a committee.

District pork board names Craig director

By JOHN GRUBER
County Extension Agent

Congratulations are in order this week for Harry Craig, Jones Road, Bloomingburg. Harry was elected District Director to the Ohio Pork Producers Council at the District meeting in Chillicothe Wednesday night. The District is made up of Fayette, Ross, Pickaway, and Fairfield counties.

Harry has been an active member and past president of the Fayette County Pork Producers Association and participates regularly in meetings of the Ohio and National Pork Producers Council.

The District meeting is held annually to select the District Pork Queen and to hear a report on the activities of the Ohio Pork Producers Council. Nancy Woods, Fayette County Pork Queen, was a participant in the Queen Contest which was won by Nancy Mast from Pickaway County.

Dick Isler, Executive Secretary of the Ohio Pork Producers Council was on hand to report on the pork promotion activities of recent months. According to Dick, one successful promotion that has been coordinated through the National Pork Producers Council was this summer's Hawaiian Luau promotion.

Pork outlook for the next year is going to be good according to David Gerber, Area Extension Agent, Swine Industry. Gazing into his crystal hog trough at the District Pork meeting Gerber said that the forecast was for fewer hogs on Ohio farms with a trend toward more hogs nationally. He suggested that producers watch the futures market over the next few weeks to determine what trend the market will take.

WHERE ARE they now! Newspaper and T.V. headlines are what I am referring to. They provided a lot of abuse for agriculture during recent months. They made sure consumers knew that food prices were rising at unequalled rates. But where are they now? Several headlines have mentioned that livestock prices are down, but too few have failed to mention what it means to the farmer. We saw and heard many reports of how rising food prices were putting a crimp in the style of living to which many people have become accustomed.

The problem now is the livestock prices have dropped tremendously, as much as 30 per cent or more. Where are the headlines telling the consumer that the farmer is doing his bit to cool inflation - not because he wants to - but because the market is forcing him too. Just wondering - what would happen to inflation and the value of the dollar if factory workers showed up at work Monday morning to find this note "Sorry market's off 25 per cent today and your wages are reduced accordingly". Oh yes, the same thing would have to happen to everyone, auto dealers, clothing stores, labor management alike. Just wondering - what if the whole country operated on a free market such as agriculture?

I got to thinking about this last week

while attending the National Association of County Agriculture Agents Convention in Baltimore, Md. You see, one day I ate lunch in a restaurant where after you ate and received your check, the cashier added on ten per cent because there food cost had gone up. It was just a little bit too much when I paid twenty-five cents for a coffee (which didn't get refilled) and then the cashier added another two and one-half cents to it!

Proper hints offered for earn corn picking

Proper P.T.O. speed and ground speed are two important factors in keeping harvest losses low when harvesting corn with an ear corn picker, reports Delbert (Bud) Byg, Extension agricultural engineer at Ohio State University.

Proper P.T.O. speed is 540 hpm for corn pickers. A slower speed will cause poor snapping of the ear from the stalk. Stalks may also break or pull out of the ground and the gathering chains will not feed the stalk back into the snapping rolls. This causes stalks to be dozed over forward, resulting in increased ear loss, the engineer points out. Some farmers with large tractors reduce engine speed and then shift up to a faster ground speed, thinking they are economizing — but it doesn't work that way. Ear losses can easily double or triple. Use a tachometer to check P.T.O. speed on older model tractors. On newer tractors, read the P.T.O. speed on the speed and hour meter.

The idea ground speed is 2.8 to 3.2 mph, the engineer says. The way to judge proper ground speed is to note the position on the snapping rolls where the ear is snapped from the stalk. The proper position is two-thirds of the distance up the snapping roll. If ground speed is too slow, ears are snapped near the front end of the rolls. This results in more "butt shelling of the ear" since the rolls are open wider at the front.

It also results in more ear loss because of congestion at the front of the rolls. With too fast a ground speed, ears will be snapped at the top end of the snapping rolls. This causes excessive ear crushing and shelling. Also the upper portion of stalks enter the husking mechanism, Byg states.

If your tractor doesn't have a speedometer, an easy way to determine ground speed is to have a person walk beside the picker, staying even with some part of it, and counting the number of 3-foot steps taken in 20 seconds. Then divided this number by 10 and you have the ground speed in miles per hour, Byg says.

Corn picker losses should be less than two bushels per acre when corn is 90 per cent standing and above 20 per cent grain moisture, Byg adds.

A WORD EDGEWISE... by John P. Roche

Was Israel asleep?

There are a number of distressing aspects about the new outbreak of war in the Middle East. The least of these is the role of the United Nations.

Indeed, the miracle there is that the General Assembly has not yet condemned Israel for the imperialist, aggressive behavior she demonstrated in resisting invasion. (I wonder if the "Third Worlders," who have taken to determining policy for the World Council of Churches, will denounce the Israelis for such irreligious action as fighting on Yom Kippur?

No, there are issues at two other levels that concern me far more than anything that may emerge from Turtle Bay. The first I alluded to here a few weeks ago: the extent to which the Arab position on a Middle Eastern "peace" has become the conventional wisdom.

The Egyptian justification for attacking was that "peaceful" techniques of settling the boundary dispute had failed. This is nonsense. Cairo has flatly stated for years that it would not sit down at the table with Israel. And that its precondition for letting anybody else try to settle the dispute was an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories.

THE DIFFICULTY with the conventional wisdom is that it meshes so nicely with the selfish stimuli of the Western energy crisis. Although there is no reason to believe that Arab oil blackmail would cease if Israel were located in Australia, the temptation is to contemplate a cold winter and accept the propaganda line (already launched by some American oil companies) that Israel's stubbornness is the cause of it all.

In a realistic analysis, the Arab oil-producing nations are on to a good thing — all Israel does is provide them with an excuse for what they would be doing anyhow, namely sandbagging oil-thirsty industrial economies.

My second concern is that Israel seems to have been asleep at the switch. Perhaps some Jews and Arabs would be dismayed at an attack on Yom Kippur and Ramadan, but Moshe Dayan must have heard the well-substantiated rumors that North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, who now has some free time on his hands, has been providing "fraternal" advice to the Syrians and the Palestinian guerrillas. (Giap's specialty is, of course, assaults on holidays — see Tet.)

Moreover, building up for an armored invasion of the Golan Heights or a Suez bridging operation can hardly be conducted in secret. Where was Israeli military intelligence? The excuse that the enemy has been threatening such activities for years with no action just won't wash: you can't mass the material for 11 bridges in a desert, then crank up to install them without leaving traces significant enough to justify at least partial mobilization of the Israeli reserves.

"I was just passing this way, so I thought it was a good chance to report that my mother-in-law has been missing for about ten months."

The net result is that Israel for the first time since 1948 is on the defensive. As other Arab states make their contribution (Iraq has already offered 100,000 men and its sophisticated air force, and Tunisia—of all places—is sending a contingent), Israel may be confronted with its ultimate military nightmare: a war of attrition.

BEAR IN MIND that the Egyptians and Syrians alone outnumber Israel by roughly two to one and that a number of intelligent Arab military men among them have not been wasting the last six years on rhetoric. Once Israel is fully mobilized, it may be able to launch the kind of blitz that worked so well in 1956 and 1967, but the ominous possibility must also be faced that Israel will wind up literally besieged, dying the death of a thousand cuts.

One hopes this is unduly pessimistic, but the point is that the United States is Israel's only friend in the world. We must therefore face a number of very hard contingencies (with military intervention as an ultimate possibility) and be in a position to implement them.

If President Nixon confines himself to playing games at the United Nations, he will be engaging in a dangerous form of inaction. While urging the Arabs and Israelis to negotiate their differences, he should make it clear that we will not permit the destruction of Israel: the actual Arab objective.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

By reading the news nowadays about all the shortage on all the fuels it makes a person wonder how and why we are having these shortages. They seem to come all at once.

We have just gotten through a 10-year war in Viet Nam. During this time I know that there had been millions of gallons of fuel had to be used for these bombers and helicopters and what have you. All during this decade how much was there said about a fuel shortage? Now that this war has stopped and is not using all this fuel we suddenly find we have a shortage.

I think the oil companies had gotten used to making a vice profit from the sales of these fuels to the government, and now that it's stopped they cry shortage so they can bring their prices up and get the profit they kind of gotten used to.

I know one trip in those bombers would take me a long time to use that amount of gas. This is why I feel that this shortage is man made.

Christmas Tree set for nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 40-foot evergreen that is destined to be the nation's official Christmas tree for years to come has arrived here.

The Colorado blue spruce, trucked in Thursday, is to be planted later at the center of the Ellipse, a grassy area behind the White House. It will be decorated and lighted annually for the two-week-long Pageant of Peace, which this year begins Dec. 14.

The tree, which is expected to double in size eventually, is the first to be planted here. In the past, a fresh tree has been felled in a national forest each year and transported to Washington.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE OBJECT OF TEACHING A CHILD IS TO ENABLE HIM TO GET ALONG WITHOUT HIS TEACHER.—ELBERT HUBBARD

(© 1973 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She called him 'Bob' — husband Joe got upset

DEAR ABBY: I am a 25-year-old mother of five boys ranging from 7 years old, down to 20 months. I am happily married, or at least I WAS until this unexplainable thing happened.

About three months ago, my husband and I were talking, and I said: "That's what you think, Bob." (His name is Joe.)

He asked me who "Bob" was, and I honestly couldn't give him an answer. I don't know any Bob, and I don't recall one who meant a thing to me.

I swear to you, Abby, I don't know what made me call my husband "Bob."

He keeps bringing it up. I'm sure he thinks there must be a "Bob" in my life. There isn't. How can I convince him? And can you give me one good reason why I called Joe "Bob?"

INNOCENT

DEAR INNOCENT: Bob is a very common name, and there are lots of Bobs bobbing around on TV and radio and in the newspaper. Don't let it bother you. With five boys under seven, you could have unconsciously been thinking of bibs, boobs, or babes.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman. He does the least amount of work he can. Some days he stays in bed until 1:00 p.m. When people call for him I have to lie and say he's "out." His laziness irritates me.

I work hard for the church, teaching Sunday school, working with the auxiliary, and helping with study groups.

We've been married for over 30 years, and our children are gone. They seldom come home because their father is so hard to get along with. He never converses; he lectures. He monopolizes every conversation, contradicts everyone, and tells me not to express any opinions in public because I'm stupid.

I can't ask anyone for help with my problem because it would ruin my husband's image. Besides I wouldn't want anyone to know what kind of person he is.

I've secretly considered leaving him, but a divorced minister would have a hard time getting another church, and he couldn't stay here for the shame of it. (I could go to my daughter's. She knows what I'm putting up with.) Please help me.

NO IDENTIFICATION, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Clergymen have the same problems as other men. (So do their wives.) Don't let the illusion of his "image" discourage you. He needs counseling, and so do you. Your county welfare or Family Service can offer you excellent confidential professional help. I suggest you get it.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My mother, who is in her middle sixties, has been ailing for five years, but she absolutely refuses to go to a doctor. She has not had a checkup in 20 years. Just the mention of it infuriates her.

Although the rest of her is normal, her abdomen has become greatly enlarged, leading us to fear she could have a tumor. She eats very little but lately she drinks a lot. I suspect she does this because of the pain-killing properties in alcohol.

I have nightmares about her having cancer, but she says a woman her age doesn't have to worry about that.

Abby, how can we get her a doctor? She reads you faithfully. Can you help?

STUMPED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR STUMPED: She is wrong. A woman "her age" is not immune to cancer. Your mother is probably avoiding the doctor because she's afraid of bad news. Stress your love and concern for her without communicating your fears. (P.S. If any doctors out there know of a better solution, I'll be glad to print it. And you may remain anonymous.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Don't find yourself ineligible to vote because you "forgot" to register. Call the headquarters of your choice (political, that is) and, if you don't know, ask where you should register. "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing." (Edmund Burke: 17th Century)

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

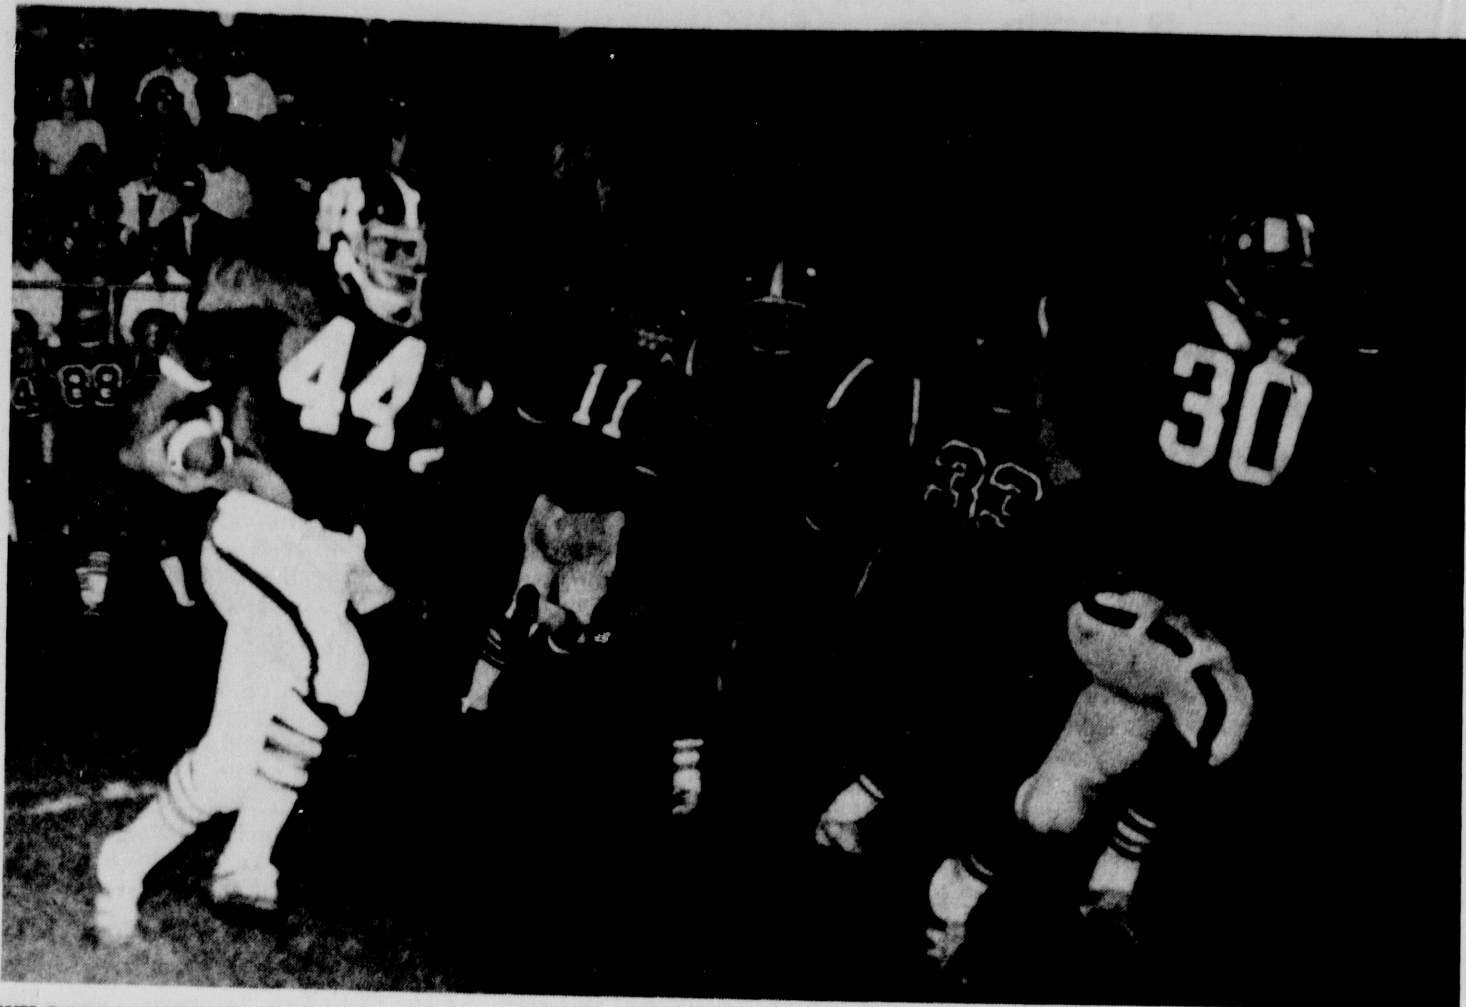

Another service of your funeral director is to make a careful record of floral tributes so that the family can send notes of acknowledgment. If the family decides that the flowers are to be shared with some hospital, church, or other institution, the funeral director will see that they are promptly delivered.

Respectfully,

Bengals gird for Sunday's appointment with Steelers

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Bengals, armed with a 1-2-3 punch which hasn't been enough, square off Sunday with one of the National Football League's top knockout artists—the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A sellout crowd of more than 60,000 is expected for the American Conference battle which has to be considered an important contest for both clubs.

For the unbeaten Steelers, who have mauled four straight opponents by lopsided scores, it also offers the chance to apply a staggering blow to the Bengals, once considered Pittsburgh's prime challenger in the Central Division.

Cincinnati, 2-2, goes into the meeting with the No. 1 offensive in the 13-team AFC, the NFL's No. 2 ground gainer in stubby Essex Johnson and the third-best passing game in pro football.

The Bengals lead the league with 1,396 yards, and Johnson is second only to O.J. Simpson in rushing yardage. The 5-foot-9 Johnson is averaging 98.5 yards per game.

Quarterback Ken Anderson's 771 aerial yards trail only Roman Gabriel's 837 and Jim Hart's 820.

But despite the gaudy statistical marks, the Bengals have faltering on the field. They are third in the standings and can't afford many more defeats to remain in contention.

But they have their work cut out. "The Steelers are one of the very best football teams in the National Football League," said Coach Paul Brown. "There's not much missing—if anything."

Pittsburgh, division winners last year with an 11-3 mark, has been explosive in their best start in history.

Last week, quarterback Terry Bradshaw keyed a 38-point first half avalanche that buried San Diego 38-21. The week before it was a 30-point

A's, Mets collide

OAKLAND (AP)—New York's Cinderellas, the Mets of 1973, that is, began testing their latest little miracle on the Oakland A's today as the World Series opened with a battle of left-handers—Jon Matlack for the Mets and Ken Holtzman for the A's.

"You gotta believe!" was the slogan the Mets used to cheer themselves from last place to first in the final month of the season and then past Cincinnati in the playoffs to win the National League championship.

Even some of the A's sound like believers. Holtzman, for example, remembered the Mets as no pushovers from his days as a pitcher with the Chicago Cubs.

"If I had to pick one club in the National League which gave me the most trouble, I would have to say it was the Mets," said the southpaw, one of three 20-game winners on the Oakland staff. He lost nine of 13 career decisions against New York while with Chicago.

"The Mets are a good ball club with a super pitching staff," said Reggie Jackson, who had been quoted earlier as putting down the New Yorkers. "Lots of people take them lightly because of their so-so record but if you do, they'll knock your head off like they did to the Reds."

That so-so record was 82-79 but it was good enough to win the National League East title. It is the worst record ever carried into a World Series by any team in baseball history.

Manager Yogi Berra shrugged off his club's sorry record, pointing to health problems that plagued the team throughout the season.

"I'd like to take a chance all season with everybody healthy," said Berra.

He may not have that chance this week. Right fielder Rusty Staub, one of the most potent bats in the Mets' lineup, was a doubtful starter for today's opener because of a banged-up right shoulder, injured in the fourth game of the playoffs against the Reds.

Both teams were set to use left-handers in the first two games here. After Matlack and Holtzman dueled today, the Mets were scheduled to pitch

Jerry Koosman against Vida Blue on Sunday.

That left the respective aces of the staffs—Tom Seaver of the Mets and Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the A's—to oppose each other in Tuesday night's third game in New York. Seaver and Hunter were the winners as the Mets and A's won their league titles in the fifth and final playoff games against Cincinnati and Baltimore.

The A's are in the Series for the second straight year. They beat Cincinnati in a pulsating seven-game showdown in 1972. The Mets' only other Series appearance was in 1969 when they disposed of Baltimore in five games.

"I can remember 1969 like it was yesterday," said shortstop Bud Harrellson, one of 12 current Mets who played on that championship team. "If we play this Series like we played that one, we'll be all right."

Bernier's team leaps in prep grid ratings

COVINGTON, Ky. — Covington (Ky.) Catholic High School, under the guidance of former Miami Trace head coach Fred Bernier, is playing a game of leapfrog in the Kentucky high school football ratings.

Covington Catholic, which had gone winless in four games before upsetting Lexington Bryan Station 22-14 last Saturday night. As a result, Bryan Station fell from No. 5 to No. 7 and Covington Catholic jumped from 53rd all the way to a three-way tie for 31st place.

AND WHEN told of his team's climb by a reporter from the Louisville Courier-Journal, Covington Catholic coach Bernier paused, laughed, then exclaimed, "Oh my goodness!"

Another pause, then "Oh my goodness," he said again. "You've got to be kidding. I was sure that would help, but we sure didn't expect it to be that much. But I guess the ratings go haywire when something like that happens."

Actually, in the past a Covington Catholic win over Bryan Station wouldn't have been that surprising. But Bernier, who returned to Kentucky after coaching for four years in Ohio, including the short stint at Miami Trace, admits that Covington Catholic's program has gone downhill recently.

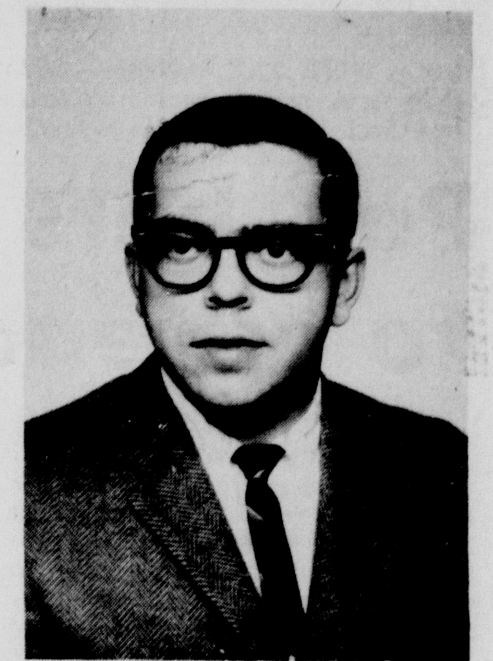

"Catholic had an awfully good program in the past," Bernier said, "but about four years ago they started letting it disintegrate. So we've been trying to build it back up, but it's really hard when you play teams like we've been playing."

And Bernier knows what he's talking about there. In five games Covington Catholic has faced no less than three teams — Fort Thomas Highlands, Lexington Lafayette and Bryan Station — that have been in the top 10 in the rankings when it has played them.

However, Covington Catholic has only been clobbered once — 45-13 by Lafayette two weeks ago. The rest of its games have been decided by a touchdown or less.

"WE NEED to play teams our own size," Bernier remarked. "You can get by with one or two teams like that a year, but not every game. We're working on our schedule, though, and I'm very optimistic."

Another reason for concern may fall in the fact that Covington Catholic's enrollment has fallen way down recently. Last year it was less than half of what it was four years ago, but it has grown to 550 boys this year.

"It looks as if things are beginning to pick up again," Bernier remarked. "We have the largest freshman class in four years."

"Our biggest problem, though, is that the school has been used to losing for so long," he continued. "But this will help our kids tremendously. Now they'll believe in what we're teaching."

"I assume that the ratings are based upon who you play. I was surprised when we hadn't won a game and were rated as high as 51st. But it depends on who you play, and we've sure played some tough ones," Bernier said.

Are Rams real?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are the Los Angeles Rams for real?

As the National Football League goes into its fifth weekend, the Rams, in a renaissance under new Coach Chuck Knox, are one of the three teams still unbeaten and untied.

Los Angeles, with a new quarterback in John Hadl, a new coaching philosophy and a highly suspect—in preseason estimates—pass defense, had been relegated to the role of runner-up or lower in the reckoning of the National Football Conference West race.

Instead, the Rams are 4-0, have the best scoring offense in the NFC and one of the better defenses against scoring.

This Sunday the Rams play host to the Dallas Cowboys and face the severest test to date. The Cowboys will be attempting to rebound from their loss to Washington and stay alive in the NFC. The oddsmakers called it a "pick-em" early in the week.

Before going on to this week's Fearless Football Forecast, let's pause—not for station identification—and report that last week's showing was much better: 10 correct, three wrong. That makes it 36-14-2 for four weeks and a .720 average.

Fort Wayne Komets turn back Owls, 5-3

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Fort Wayne Komets survived some shaky defensive work in the third period, then got an insurance goal from Ken Nelson with slightly more than two minutes left to beat the Columbus Owls 5-3 in an International Hockey League exhibition game here Friday night.

Fort Wayne led 4-1 going into the third period, but Columbus rammed in two goals in one six-minute stretch to close to 4-3 before Nelson's unassisted goal at 17:57 closed out the scoring.

slated to start at the running backs which leaves an unhappy Mike Garrett on the sidelines.

The Raiders, 2-2, are also going with a young quarterback in place of a veteran. Lefthander Ken Stabler has sent Daryle Lamonica to the sidelines, for the time being anyway. The Raiders, with Stabler at the helm, rolled up 446 yards in total offense against St. Louis last week—the club's best offensive showing since 1970.

Other games on Sunday's schedule: Dallas at Los Angeles, Minnesota at San Francisco, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Green Bay in Milwaukee, Baltimore at Buffalo, Washington meets the New York Giants in New Haven, Conn., Philadelphia at St. Louis, Detroit at New Orleans, Chicago at Atlanta, the New York Jets visit New England and Houston welcomes Denver.

Miami visits Cleveland in the Monday night game.

In comes the new out goes the old

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty-year-old Johnny Unitas holds almost all National Football League passing records and 22-year-old Dan Fouts doesn't hold any.

But when the San Diego Chargers go on offense Sunday against the Oakland Raiders, it'll be Fouts on the field and Unitas on the bench.

Chargers' Coach Harland Svare said Friday that Unitas "needs a rest."

The Chargers have won just one of four games, with Unitas completing just two of the nine passes he through against Pittsburgh last week.

Fouts, a third-round draft choice out of Oregon, hit on 11 of 21 tosses for 174 yards in the second half, racking up 21 points in the process.

Quarterback is not the only problem area on the San Diego team. Offensive coach Bob Schnelker quit this week and was replaced by George Dickson, and there's grumbling in the backfield.

Priests may pray a victory for Rice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe Nebraska's Bob Devaney was right a couple of years ago when he said that "even the Pope couldn't vote for Notre Dame."

The Pope hasn't been heard from, but some 80 area priests, clad in their clerical "game uniforms," will be rooting against Notre Dame when the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish meet Rice tonight in Houston.

"There'll be 40 of them on each side of our bench and we've made them sign a pledge to root for Rice," says Coach Al Conover, one of the game's new breed of free spirits. "We're going to outspiritualize them."

Not to be outdone, the Notre Dame alumni society of Houston has purchased 1,500 tickets to the game, scheduled a pep rally and printed ribbons and buttons boosting Notre Dame.

Coach Ara Parseghian is worried about the Rice team, not the priests. "Any team that can hold Louisiana State to three points in the first half at Baton Rouge has to be respected," he says, even though Rice eventually lost 24-9.

The only other night game involving a member of The Associated Press Top Twenty is San Jose State at No. 11 Arizona State.

Friday night, 14th-ranked Houston scored two touchdowns in 1:41 of the third quarter—including a 95-yard kickoff return by Larry Jefferson—to defeat Virginia Tech 54-27.

Third string quarterback Ed Carney scored on a one-yard sneak with 53 seconds remaining to give 16th-ranked Miami, Fla. a 15-10 victory over Boston College.

The rest of the Top Ten schedule finds No. 1 Ohio State at Wisconsin, No. 2 Nebraska at No. 12 Missouri, No. 3 Alabama at Florida, Washington State at No. 4 Southern California, No. 5 Michigan at Michigan State, No. 6 Oklahoma vs. No. 13 Texas at Dallas, Army at No. 7 Penn State, Georgia Tech at No. 8 Tennessee and No. 10 Louisiana State at Auburn.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 15 UCLA at Stanford, Air Force at No. 17 Colorado, No. 18 Tulane at Duke, Kansas State at No. 19 Kansas and Ohio University at No. 20 Miami of Ohio.

Lions, MT win crucial SCOL bouts

ROLL WITH THE PUNCH — Miami Trace tri-captain Doug Ford (33) balances himself on one hand after being hit by a Circleville defender. Panthers throttle Tigers to extend victory string

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

With a winning streak dating back to 1971 of having not lost a league game at Miami Trace Field, the Miami Trace Panthers dealt with the pressure to come up with a convincing 30-14 victory over defending South Central Ohio League champ Circleville Friday night.

Whether it was the traditional victory for Homecoming or the pressure of keeping a win streak alive, the Panthers stood to the mark to win their second straight SCOL contest in as many outings.

THE PANTHERS put together three touchdowns in the first half and one touchdown in the second half while only giving up two touchdowns to the punchless Circleville Tigers late in the game.

Miami Trace dominated the statistics in every category except passing yardage. The Miami Trace boys held the upper hand in first downs with 13 to Circleville's five. The Panthers hit the Circleville defense for 232 yards rushing while only giving up a stingy 17 yards and led in overall yardage with 290 yards to the Tigers' 152 yards.

The defense and the offense can share the honors in the victory celebration combining for their best effort so far this season. The defense held the Tigers to a limited number of offensive plays while the offense controlled the ball to give the defense plenty of time to rest.

With tri-captain Doug Ford returning to the lineup after suffering a head injury, head coach Fred Zechman knew the Panthers would have a one-two backfield combination in both Ford and Sagar. Sagar filled in for Ford so thoroughly in last week's victory over Hillsboro, but didn't realize the Panthers could dominate the game so well on the ground.

Ford carried the ball 21 times for a total of 153 yards and Sagar toted the pigskin 11 times for 42 yards. The offense also got help from hard-hitting quarterback Tom Riley, who tallied 26 yards in 14 tries and tight-end Jay Mossbarger who ran one time for 14 yards and also returned a fumble 40 yards for a touchdown.

But, the answer to Miami Trace's prayers might have been the superb job the defensive unit strung together. The Panthers defense allowed only 24 yards rushing in the first half and permitted even less in the second half by throwing the Circleville runners back for a minus seven yards. Circleville did manage 135 yards through the air, but could only collect one touchdown through the airways. Most of the Tigers' passing yardage was collected between the 20 yard lines.

The game started out as if Circleville would open the game up, when on the kickoff Jim Woods mishandled the ball and Circleville recovered the fumble. But, the Panthers held their ground and Circleville was forced to give the ball and eventually the ball game to Miami Trace.

Missed field goals 'Cane's only threat in WCH's romp

BY MIKE FLYNN

Washington C.H.'s Blue Lions blended a tireless performance from its selfish defensive unit with a bruising offensive punch to methodically grind down Wilmington by a one-sided 44-0 score before a bulging at the seams crowd Friday night at Gardner Park Stadium.

Although the spicy Washington C.H. offense, headed by the ground-gobbling Chuck Wilson, supplied plenty of fireworks in the annual Homecoming game, it was the persistent defense which kept Wilmington shaking in its boots throughout the game.

The hopped-up Wilmington team, which saw its chances for a South Central Ohio League football championship nearly ruined after the lopsided loss, just couldn't cope with the Lions' defensive dandies.

The Clinton Countians did manage to seriously threaten Washington C.H.'s incredible scoreless string twice, but had the door slammed in their faces on both occasions.

Rookie head coach Ron Wilt's Wilmington team, which used a late field goal for a hard-earned win over Circleville a week ago, employed the same tactic against Washington C.H., but had no success. A 25-yard field goal try was blocked, while another fell short.

It was the sixth straight shutout of the fall campaign for the unbeaten and top-ranked Blue Lions who stretched their SCOL record to a fancy 3-0 level.

The performance matched a long-standing school record turned by the 1948 Washington C.H. team for the number of shutouts during one season. The shutout erased a record set by the legendary 1952 team which had five whitewashes. The Lions now have posted 29 consecutive scoreless quarters over a two-year span.

Spearheading the defensive surge Friday was Wilson. The 6-foot-0, 180-pounder blocked one of Wilmington's field goal tries, intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble. The pass interception by Wilson was the 13th of the season for the Lions. The school record for pass thefts in a season is 15.

But, Wilson wasn't the only star for the stubborn Lion defense. Senior Steve Mosley and sophomore Richard Haithcock also pounced on Wilmington fumbles, while titanic tackles John Sanderson and Garth Cox, middle linebacker Larry Dumford and defensive ends Duke Willis and Tim O'Flynn also sparkled.

While head coach Maurice Pfeiffer's defense has been so outstanding in the six outings so far, the Lion offense has stacked up a bulging 220-0 scoring advantage behind the performance of Wilson.

Wilson gained a total of 182 yards in 23 rushes against Wilmington and stretched his commanding lead in the SCOL scoring race by surpassing the 100-point mark. Wilson, on the basis of the splendid four-touchdown effort, now has scored 102 points in six games. Wilson gained 113 yards before halftime.

Team captain Mark Johnson turned in his usual fine performance by gaining 34 yards in five carries and grabbing four of Alan Coppock's passes for 68 yards. The velvety senior half-back also scored on a 19-yard hookup with Coppock and the same two combined for an extra point conversion.

straight undisputed SCOL title were ruined when head coach Larry Cook's Tigers dropped their second league game in three starts. Wilmington is now 2-1 in the league race and is still a bonafide contender.

Elsewhere in Friday's SCOL rumble, Madison Plains posted its first win in six outings this year by nudging Greenfield McClain in a 14-8 struggle on the Golden Eagle gridiron. It was the sixth consecutive loss for Greenfield.

In other action involving SCOL teams Friday, state-ranked Frankfort Adena rolled up a comfortable 40-0 halftime bulge and then breezed to a 48-8 win over Hillsboro.

junior fullback, threw several key blocks to spring the Wilson and Johnson, while also picking up 50 yards in five totes.

Junior Jeff Brown had another fine game as he engineered a late Blue Lion scoring march by gaining 27 yards on only two carries. Brown also boomed a punt totaling 55 yards and finished the game with a nifty 38.0 average on four punts.

Jackie Watson, the quick-stepping Wilmington halfback, had plenty of problems against the rugged Lion defenders as he gained only 30 yards in 15 attempts and had lost a total of 13 yards before intermission. Brad Reynolds was the top rusher for the Hurricane with 47 yards in 11 tries while Kip Collins gained 39 yards.

Actually, Washington C.H. had the contest sewed up in the first half. But Wilmington's serious scoring bids were mounted following intermission.

The Lions zoomed to a 14-0 first quarter advantage as Wilson scored on a 10-yard jaunt and Johnson grabbed a 29-yard aerial from Coppock for a touchdown. Johnson and Coppock combined for 68 yards through the air in the first period, while Wilson and Dumford were handling the running chores.

1948 Blue Lion gridders hold school shutout mark

Washington C.H.'s shutout win over Wilmington Friday night did not shatter a school record as advertised earlier this week.

Since complete school records are nearly impossible to check, it was believed that a five-shutout performance turned in by the legendary 1952 Washington C.H. team was the record.

But, the 1948 team, which registered a fine 8-8-1 record, holds the school record with six shutouts. The 1948 Blue Lions let the South Central Ohio League championship slip away with a 16-13 loss to Circleville in that season.

Only three of the shutouts were fired

After a fumble recovery by Haithcock on the Washington C.H. 15-yard line, Lions marched 74 yards to paydirt with Wilson capping the time consuming drive on a four-yard run with 6:26 left in the half. Kevin Terry grabbed a pass from Coppock for the extras. Later in the period, Wilson intercepted a pass and returned it to the Wilmington five. Wilson scored on a five-yard burst and Rittenhouse and Coppock combed through the air for a 30-0 lead with 1:17 remaining before halftime.

It was after the Lions coughed up a fumble on the kickoff to open the second half that Washington C.H.'s defensive bubble almost burst. Wilmington took over at the Lion 26-yard line and marched to the nine where the Lions buttoned their chin straps and stopped the Clinton Countians cold on two straight plays. David Hamilton attempted a 27-yard field goal but it fell short.

On the Lions' next series, Brown boomed the 55-yard punt and on Wilmington's first play, Mosley recovered a fumble. Two plays later Wilson scored on a 23-yard run for a 36-0 lead with 6:44 left in the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, a low snap from center helped Wilmington block a Brown punt attempt and Tim Carr recovered the ball at the Lions' six-yard line. After three unsuccessful attempts, including a dropped pass is the end zone, Hamilton attempted another field goal which was batted down by Wilson. Washington C.H. took over and marched 80-yards with tailback David Payton scoring on a one-yard run with 11 seconds to play and Brown carried the mail for the extras.

Houston Rockets defeat Cavaliers

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Houston Rockets boosted their record to 2-1 Friday night, but Coach John Egan wasn't too happy with the performance.

"We had too many turnovers," Egan said after the Rockets defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 106-99

consecutively and the last one was a 0-0 stalemate in the season finale against Columbus Bexley.

So, Friday night's performance by head coach Maurice Pfeiffer's Blue Lions matches the 1948 team's effort, but it must be pointed out that the 1973 Lions have registered six straight shutouts. The 29 consecutive scoreless quarters over a two-year span is a school record.

Incidentally, Gene Sagar was captain of the 1948 team and his daughter, Dianne, was this year's Washington C.H. Homecoming queen.

Candidate for Veep rose from ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's choice of Gerald R. Ford as vice president marks the third time that his political career has been given a swift, surprising boost.

The affable, pipe-smoking former Big Ten football star rose out of the ranks of House Republicans 10 years ago in a sudden coup that installed him as chairman of the party caucus.

Two years later he vaulted into the party leadership post over an unsuspecting Charles A. Halleck and remained there until Nixon picked him

Mead reports dramatic gain in earnings

DAYTON — Mead reports record net earnings of $14,318,000 in the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1973. In the comparable period last year, the company earned $5,925,000 before extraordinary items.

Earnings amounted to 80 cents per share, after provision for preferred dividends, compared with 24 cents per share in the same quarter of 1972, an over three-fold increase.

Net earnings for the first three quarters of 1973 totaled $36,299,000, or $1.93 per share. Last year Mead's net for the first nine months was $18,246,000 or 73 cents per share before extraordinary items, an increase per share of over 2½ times.

Mead also reported record sales during the third quarter totaling $338,662,000 compared with $293,934,000 in the third quarter of 1972. Sales for the first three quarters of 1973 were $967,883,000, up 14 per cent from the total of $847,148,000 in the comparable period of 1972.

"Mead's white paper operations provided the largest swing in the improved earnings," according to James W. McSwiney, chairman of the board. "In addition to strong demand for paper, operations at our new pulp and paper complex in Escanaba, Mich., have improved dramatically," McSwiney said.

McSwiney noted that the improvement in Mead's paper and related business began late last year and was reflected in the fourth quarter when the company earned 35 cents a share before extraordinary items. "If operations continue at present levels, without major work stoppages or equipment outages, earnings for the fourth quarter should be comfortably ahead of the fourth quarter in 1972," he said.

Clouds crept across Ohio from the west overnight, signaling the approach of a storm system that was expected to trigger showers across the state today. Temperatures last night were milder than for several days, ranging from 65 at Toledo and Findlay to below 60 at Youngstown and Zanesville.

The National Weather Service said the wet weather system over the Midwest picked up speed over the Great Lakes and should move out of the state by this evening.

Cloudy skies and a little cooler weather is forecast Sunday. High temperatures were predicted in the 60s.

Ohio is in for generally fair weather early next week. Highs Monday through Wednesday will be in the 60s with lows in the 40s and low 50s.

Friday night as Spiro T. Agnew's replacement.

Ford's two House promotions were engineered by a group of young GOP activists for much the same reasons that Nixon chose him as vice president — his quiet hard work, unswerving loyalty to the Republican Party, and his wide popularity among his colleagues.

Now 60, Ford claims to have no further political ambitions, but his expected confirmation as vice president would stamp him clearly as a presidential prospect in 1976.

Ford's popularity among both Democrats and Republicans in Congress may be put to the test by the confirmation hearings that will begin soon in the House and Senate.

Both Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., and Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairmen of the committees that will conduct the hearings, have promised a searching inquiry and within minutes of Nixon's announcement, newspaper files were turning up potentially trouble for Ford.

He failed to report $11,500 in 1970 campaign contributions to Congress. Ford said at the time he was within the law in his handling of the money but he is certain to face close questioning about the matter.

Ford, who was born in Omaha on July 14, 1913, but raised in Grand Rapids, Mich., where he still lives, has been one of Nixon's prime assets on Capitol Hill. It is due largely to his effective leadership of the Republican minority that the House has sustained a series of Nixon vetoes this year.

The late President Lyndon B. Johnson didn't prize him so highly — once referring to him as "a nice fellow, but he played too much football without a helmet."

Ford played center on the University of Michigan football team in the 1930s, being named most valuable player in his senior year. He still tries to keep active in sports, using a backyard swimming pool in his suburban Alexandria, Va., home for daily dips in the summer and skiing whenever the opportunity arises in the winter.

He and his wife have four children, all now grown.

JHS library expansion eyed

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the superintendent's office at the Junior High School building to consider enlarging the Junior High School library.

Two small rooms across the hall from the library might be used as an extension to library facilities. The cost to furnish and equip the rooms is estimated at $5,194.

An outline has been submitted by the junior and senior high school principals for the 7-12 grade music curriculum. Board approval of the curriculum has been requested.

The board also will set a policy for home tutoring services to students who are unable to attend school and will consider Victor Pontious for the position of ninth grade basketball coach.

Frozen fries most popular potato item

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the frozen french fry could become the king of the potato domain by 1980.

According to USDA projections, the per capita use of all potatoes and their products will climb about eight pounds by 1980 to an average of about 127 pounds per year.

Further, experts say frozen french fries could capture one-third of the market by then, which would make them the single most popular potato item. In 1970 the per capita frozen fry rate was 28 pounds, but that was quadruple the 1960 average of seven pounds per capita, according to the department's Statistical Research Service.

Frozen french fries are among the few foods which have gotten cheaper, says the department. Nine ounces cost 19.7 cents in 1960, but only 16.6 cents in 1970. Even with the higher prices last summer, they still averaged 17.1 cents or less than in 1960, officials said in a report.

WILL IT BE BROKEN? — Dwight Foy (left) Bible School superintendent, and Rev. Charles Richmond, minister of the South Side Church of Christ, point to a poster which depicts an old attendance record of 434. This record, set on Easter Sunday in 1956, is being challenged this Sunday during the Bible School hour. All efforts are being made to break the attendance record, and if it is broken Sunday morning the actual record will be smashed over the Bible School superintendent's head by the minister during the morning worship service. The public is invited to the 9:30 a.m. service. "Break the Record Day" is being held in conjunction with an evangelistic meeting which will conclude Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Wally Rendel, Lexington, Ky., is the evangelist, and Grant Layman, Lancaster, is the song evangelist.

Mrs. Rankin said many people of the community are interested in their family trees, but not many know how to trace their antecedents. The session at the library for beginners, she explained, is designed to give at least the fundamentals of genealogical study.

County board agenda posted

A number of matters appear on the agenda for the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular semi-monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Guy M. The board will also hear a request from head basketball coach Dale Creamer concerning basketball coaches attending a clinic in Columbus Oct. 19, consider the extension of a contract with Miles Chester for grass cutting, set dates for baccalaureate and commencement exercises next spring and review a contract with the Pickaway County Media Services for rental of films and other audio-visual aids.

Reports from Kenneth Payton, board president, on the junior high bond issue and on the vocational school, and from Marion Waddle on the athletic association meeting will be presented.

Prices for 254 head of sheep and lamb sold at auction by Producers Livestock Association Stockyards Friday were down about 75 cents per hundredweight from last week.

Crop forecasts dip slightly, but remain above last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are gathering record crops of corn and soybeans this fall, but the harvest is not quite as large as the Agriculture Department thought a month ago.

The 1973 corn crop, based on Oct. 1 field surveys, is estimated at more than 5.76 billion bushels, down five million from September indications, the department said Friday.

But that still would be 4 per cent, about 210 million bushels, more than 1972 production.

Moreover, a 2 per cent boost in sorghum prospects during the month raised overall feed grain production this year to an estimated 211 million tons. That would be slightly more than indicated in September and 6 per cent above last year's output.

The estimate also includes corn, oats and barley.

Soybean production estimates shrank 1 per cent — 10 million bushels — from September, but at nearly 1.59 billion bushels the crop still would up 24 per cent from last year.

The sorghum crop, produced mostly in the Great Plains, was put at more than 999 million bushels, the biggest ever and 22 per cent more than last year.

Cotton production was estimated at 13.1 million bales, a 1 per cent improvement from September prospects but 4 per cent less than in 1972 when farmers planted more acres.

Total wheat production was indicated at nearly 1.73 billion bushels, a record high but down slightly from September prospects. There was no change in the 1973 winter wheat crop from the September estimate.

Opening lead - queen of spades.
Dear Mr. Becker: I am not a really good bridge player, and I am furthermore sure that most if not all of my partners would enthusiastically support this statement.
But there are times when I do play a hand unexpectedly well, and — believe it or not — my performance on those rare occasions is far beyond the ability of all but a handful of bridge players. The only trouble is that my Herculean feats occur only when I am asleep, deep in the arms of Morpheus. I can't understand how or why I can play so extraordinarily well in my dreams and then change into the worst kind of a palooka as soon as I awake.

For example, look at this hand I played last night while fast asleep. I don't think West should have doubled six spades, for in effect he let the cat out of the bag so far as the trump division was concerned.

I very nimbly ran to six notrump, West doubling again, but this time I had him over a barrel.

He led the queen of spades and you would think that in view of the critical shortage of entries to dummy I could not possibly make the slam but, by brilliant play, I was able to wrap up the contract.

I won the spade lead with the king, returned the ten of hearts, and then, after West followed low, finessed the jack! The finesse succeeding, I led the king of diamonds from dummy and discarded the ace of hearts on it!

West took the ace, but whatever he returned I was bound to make the rest of the tricks. It was like taking candy from a baby! Sincerely yours, Constant Reader.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Will Your Stroke Recur?

One of the greatest burdens that presents itself to patients who have suffered strokes, their families, and their doctors, is the unknown factor of "will recovery take place?" The possibility of prognosticating recovery may soon be a reality.

Dr. Milton G. Ettinger and his co-workers at the Hennepin County General Hospital in Minneapolis believe that special blood tests may outline the possible return of functions to patients who have suffered strokes.

Should these tests, still in their early phase of investigation, be found to be more definite, they will indeed be a tremendous contribution, medically and psychologically, to everyone involved in the care of these patients.

Otosclerosis is a very special condition that involves the bones of the middle ear. This hereditary condition is responsible for the loss of hearing that occurs more frequently in women than in men.

It is for this particular type of deafness that the Fenestration operation, and later the Stapes operation, were designed. A significant contribution that may prevent progressive loss of hearing due to Otosclerosis is the idea of using fluoroide for this purpose.

Dr. George E. Shambaugh, Jr., of the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago, first conceived of this idea. Since then, a group of ear surgeons have been studying the value of sodium fluoride to interrupt the progress of this disease. The investigators of this unique concept emphasize that sodium fluoride does not restore hearing to normal, but rather may preserve the hearing that remains.

Patients with severe, stubborn problems of intractable pain are now being studied intensively to find means of controlling it.

A wide array of surgical procedures is now being tried by neurosurgeons all over this country.

Operations on the brain and electronic devices are said to be highly effective in altering pain that cannot be controlled by the methods now available.

Dr. A.E. Walker of the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore is trying surgical procedures which heretofore were deemed too courageous.

Dr. Walker and his co-workers are exhausting every conceivable avenue to provide relief for uncontrollable pain.

in his White House office, Agnew moved to his other quarters in the Executive Office Building and the Capitol.

An aide explained that a space shortage had developed in the White House because of the growth of the presidential staff, and since Agnew had used his executive mansion office infrequently, he "felt like he ought to give it up."

Less than three years after its creation, the Office of Intergovernmental Affairs was abolished and placed under the Domestic Council.

Agnew's staff members complained privately that he had been frozen out of domestic decisions by John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's now-departed domestic-affairs chief.

Then Agnew suffered a 10 per cent cut in staff, part of a Nixon order reducing White House personnel.

By statute, the vice president is president of the Senate, attends cabinet meetings, heads the National Aeronautics and Space Council and the National Council on Indian Opportunity and is a member of the National Security Council and the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Major Veep duties didn't last long

WASHINGTON (AP) — When he took office nearly five years ago, President Nixon announced he would assign Spiro T. Agnew "new duties beyond what any vice president had ever assumed."

But things did not work out that way for long.

At the start, Nixon gave Agnew an office in the White House near his own, a special sign of prestige, and announced he was giving his vice president a major policy-making role and trimming down the ceremonial duties.

Agnew, who resigned from office Wednesday and pleaded no contest to a tax-evasion charge, had his own eight-passenger jet plane that his staff called Air Force II. He enjoyed excursions abroad as Nixon's diplomatic and goodwill emissary.

Nixon, vice president under Dwight D. Eisenhower for eight years himself, even created a mini-bureaucracy for Agnew to preside over. By executive order, he made his running mate head of the Office of Intergovernmental Relations, which was to be a clearing house for the prompt handling of problems generated at state and local levels by federal policies. He also became vice chairman of the Domestic Council.

Bloomingsburg project included

Ohio sues to get EPA sewage funds

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has filed suit against the federal Environmental Protection Agency in a fight to force the EPA to release $6 billion in sewage treatment funds.

The money, part of an $11 billion appropriation, was impounded earlier this year by President Nixon, who said spending the total amount would be inflationary.

(Included among the projects which will not receive federal funding if the Nixon Administration's impoundment policy is not reversed is a proposal for a new sewage treatment plant and interceptor sewers at Bloomingsburg. The project, at an estimated cost of $930,000, has been given No. 126 priority among 225 Ohio proposals.)

Suits challenging the impounding are already on file in four other states, and Brown appealed for three more states—Kentucky, Michigan and Tennessee—to join the Ohio action. The four states constitute the 6th federal judicial circuit.

Brown charged in his U.S. District Court suit that the state's share of the federal money was illegally cut by $350 million when the funds were frozen. And he said the move would stop sewage treatment projects planned in 149 Ohio cities during the next two years.

The suit said that Ohio's share of the sewage treatment funds should have been $635 million for 1973 and 1974 but that the impounding reduced it to $289 million.

Drivers charged after accidents

Two persons were cited for failing to stop within assured clear distance in connection with accidents investigated by the Police Department Friday. One of the accidents involved three vehicles.

Rose L. Cornell, 41, of 1016 E. Market St., was charged after she struck a trailer hauled by Lawrence Elkins, 63, New Holland, Friday morning. Elkins had stopped for a red light at Temple and Hinde streets. There were no injuries, but damage to the car driven by Mrs. Cornell was extensive.

Friday afternoon, James E. Stewart, 25, of 1014 E. Market St., was cited after he ran into the rear of a truck driven by Charles R. Lomerson, 46, Bush Rd. Lomerson was stopped behind a car at a traffic light at East and S. Main streets. Neither Stewart, Lomerson, nor Dryden D. Martin, 28, Jeffersonville, driver of the other car were injured and damage was minor.

Flood toll reaches 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floods in five Midwest states kept thousands of persons out of their homes today as a search for bodies of possible victims continued.

At least eight were confirmed dead — one in Kansas and seven in Oklahoma — but 35 persons were listed as missing at Enid, Okla.

Enid was hardest hit by the flash floods, and a search was continuing along Boggy Creek for the missing. Five of the confirmed deaths were in Enid.

Crests on the Kansas, Little Platte and Missouri rivers were expected to arrive in the Kansas City area early today. The streams surged through weakened levees into low-lying areas of five counties.

No-fault bill action delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings on a House-passed nofault insurance bill will not begin in the Senate until after the Ohio Department of Insurance completes a study of costs, Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, says.

Aronoff is chairman of the Senate committee that will consider the issue when the legislature reconvenes in regular session Jan. 2.

Aronoff said he wants a study of costs of the House measure and of alternatives as well.
